STATE BORDER BLOCKADE LIFTED

TOURISTS TO BE ALLOWED TO PROCEED

Arizona Governor Acts To Permit Entrance of 800 Stranded Motorists After Precautions Taken.

(Associated Press.)

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 19.—Governor G. W. P. Hunt of Arizona, early today lifted the foot and mouth disease blockade at Yuma, in order to permit the passage into this state of approximately 800 motorists reported in a pitiful condition as a result of their being held on the California side of the state line without camping equipment or sufficient food.

In a telegram to Dr. E. L. Stam, in charge of the quarantine at Yuma, the governor stated he felt "it would be safer to have these people pass after a thorough inspection and fumigation than to have to rush the guard.

"I do not want to see any bloodshed, but we must use every precaution possible,' 'the message continued. "Owing to the very serious situation as reported in your telephone message and the non-arrival of the military, you are authorized to issue permits after thorough inspection and fumigation, to persons that are now stranded on the California side. As soon as this is done have the embargo closed again. I realize what a menace it would be to Arizona to have this dreadful disease get a foothold.

To Begin Inspections.

YUMA, Ariz., April 19. — Upon receipt of instructions from Governor Hunt to permit entry into Arizona of some 800 tourists blockaded here, many of whom are suffering from lack of food and shelter, preparations were begun at once by city and quarantine officers to subject the travelers to inspection and fumigation so they might cross the state line as soon as posible.

To prevent holding up the motorists for several more days, which would be necessary if a fumigation station is to be erected at the Yuma bridge, it was planned to utilize a fumigation plant at Knobb, Cal., twelve miles west of here. If it is found possible to use this plant today, the tourists may all be on the Arizona side of the Colorado river before night.

Quarantine guards on duty here to enforce the embargo last night repelled an attempt to break the blockade.

The vanguard of more than 700 motorists from California, barred from entry under the embargo against vehicular traffic, swept past some of the guards on the Colorado bridge, but retreated when a cordon was formed on the Yuma side and fire hose brought up to play streams of water on the mob.

No one was hurt in the rush. There was no shooting, guards having been disarmed as a measure to prevent bloodshed. After retreating toward the west end of the bridge, the travelers, weakened and weary by several nights encampment in the desert, became quiet and order was restored.

To Seek Agreement.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—An effort will be made by the federal government to bring about an agreement looking to adjustment of the situation growing out of the embargoes of adjoining states against California to prevent spread of the foot and mouth disease.

Representatives of the affected states will be asked by the department of justice to consider an agreement providing protection for those not affected by the disease and at the same time relaxing restrictions.

Cantaloupe growers in the Imperial valley, where the disease has not appeared, and other farmers are said by Secretary Wallace to be threatened with heavy losses unless some relief is provided.

Urge Larger Funds.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—An additional appropriation of $1,500,000 would be available to fight the foot and mouth disease among California livestock under a resolution passed today by the house. The measure was sent to the senate by an unanimous viva voce vote.

CUT IN HOURS FOR RAIL MEN

Decision In Federal Court at Chicago Expected to Reduce Working Hours For Yard Employes From Twelve to Nine Hours.

(Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, April 19.—A decision expected to reduce working hours of railroad yardmasters and yardmen from twelve to nine hours was made today by Federal Judge Cliffe in the case of the interstate commerce commission against the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway.

The decision affects 8,000 yardmen employed by American railroads.

The case was based on the point of safety, since yardmasters and foremen handle orders by telephone.

The company was fined $3,000 and preparations were made to appeal the case, which may go to the United State supreme court.

MOTORMAN HURT IN A COLLISION

Henry Giest, 744 North Twelfth street, street car motorman, was badly cut by flying glass when the car under his control, was struck at Tenth and Rose streets about 4:30 p. m. Friday by a southbound street car which had been knocked from the tracks when struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. F. T. Kiser, according to E. R. Heiny, of the Lincoln Traction company.

Giest was in charge of a northbound car, which was loading passengers. The other car, in charge of H. G. Relley, Bethany, was moving about twelve miles an hour, Heiny said. Relley was not seriously injured.

The trolley cars were damaged to the extent of about $300, Heiny said. Mrs. Kiser, it was stated, was uninjured.

Abolition of Code System Urged In Address by Case

Several current topics were discussed by members of the Democratic Noon Luncheon club at the Grand hotel Saturday. Each person was given a printed slip naming the topic with which he was to deal, and then was called upon by the chairman to talk.

Education is one of the most important subjects of national concern, declared Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle, and even if not made a political issue, every democrat should be in favor of legislation aiding it.

Dr. J. D. Case recommended that the code system should be completely abolished.

Mrs. Alice Deweese asserted that more united effort would greatly help democratic candidates in their campaign.

The railroads' failure to offer reduced fares to national democratic convention delegates is one of the matters which should be urged on [illegible] convention here for action, said Mrs. Lue R Spencer. Perhaps, she suggested, there is a desire to keep western candidates away from the meeting.

BRYAN NOT TO FILL VACANCY

Legislative Seat Vacated But Governor Says No Special Election To Be Called at Present Time.

GORDON REMOVES TO STATE OF COLORADO

No Special Session of Legislature In Prospect Unless Republicans Admit a Deficiency In Road Fund.

Legislative house district No. 109 of Nebraska is left without a representative in the state lawmaking assembly, by the removing of its elected member, A. P. Gordon of Hemingford, to Colorado. Mr. Gordon wrote to Governor Bryan enclosing his resignation, saying that he was going to make his home in the grizzly state. The resignation, however, was not necessary, as the Nebraska constitution provides that whenever a state senator or representative moves out of his district the office becomes automatically vacant.

If a legislative session were now in progress Governor Bryan would have the prerogative of appointing a successor to Mr. Gordon; but he possesses no authority to appoint where the vacancy occurs outside of a session. The only way in which it could be filled is to call a special election in the 100th district. Governor Bryan does not intend to do this, as he anticipates no special session of the legislature and if there is none there will be no duties for a representative to perform. Candidates for the next legislature, which will convene on the first Tuesday in January, 1925, were nominated in the late primaries and members will be elected in November.

"I see no occasion to consider the filling of this vacancy unless the republican members of the present legislature will admit that there is a deficiency in state highway funds from the former biennium and will pledge themselves to appropriate the money necessary to pay the contractors what the state owes them for work done," said the governor.

Mr. Bryan heard that the state senate's investigating committee is nearly ready to report its findings. He understands that the contractors who have been holding the sack for $300,000, more or less, by reason of the old appropriation having been overrun, are greatly interested in what the committee's conclusions will be regarding the deficiency. If the committee declines to admit any shortage of funds, the contractors will have nothing to expect from this legislature nor from the next one if it should happen to be under the same political control.

Governor Bryan informed newspaper representatives that, besides the unpaid bills of the contractors, there will be some $30,000 or $40,000 to pay for services during this biennium by members of the state engineer's office in supervising and checking up work on old projects not yet, or but recently, completed. As federal funds are received, applicable to the old contracts, the time of the state's engineers so employed on each project is paid for and the current appropriations is accordingly reimbursed.

OIL COMPANY FILES ANSWER

Sinclair's Reply to Government's Suit for Annulment of Teapot Dome Lease Contains Sweeping Denial of Fraud Charges.

(Associated Press.)

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 19.—The Mammoth Oil company's answer to the government's suit for annulment of the corporation's lease on the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve was filed in United States District court here today.

The answer contains sweeping denial of all charges of collusion and fraud contained in the government's bill of equity and asserts that the lease on the reserve is legal and valid.

The answer contains thirty-three sections, each of which refers to a corresponding section in the government's bill. Numerous sections admit the allegations set forth in the corresponding sections of the government's bill, but allegations attacking the validity of the Sinclair corporation's lease are denied.

The reply concludes:

"This defendant (Mammoth Oil company) prays that the plaintiff (United States government) take nothing from its bill of complaint herein and that the defendant be hence dismissed without delay, and for all other and proper relief."

ASK $26,000 FOR SON'S DEATH IN CROSSING CRASH

Mother of Glen Yetter Claims Railroad Company Was Negligent.

Suit for $26,112 for the death of Glen Yetter, Wesleyan university athlete, was filed in district court Saturday against the Missouri Pacific railway. Mrs. Mattie Yetter, administratrix of the estate of her son, is the plaintiff. Yetter, who was 18 years old, was killed January 5, last when the car in which he and other Wesleyan students were riding was struck by a Missouri Pacific train at Thirty-third and N streets.

The petition claims that buildings and telephone poles obstructed the view of the approaching train; that the crossing signal was out of order; that the headlight on the train was not bright enough; and that the train was going too fast.

Walter S. Yetter, the father, and Mrs. Yetter are named as the survivors.

Lincoln Man Ends His Life After Arrest

George A. Towle, 73, was found dead in the basement of his home at 338 South Twenty-ninth street at 6 o'clock Friday evening, death apparently having been caused by strychnine. Humiliation over his arrest and fine in Police court Friday on a charge of misdemeanor is believed to have caused Mr. Towle to end his life.

The body was found in the laundry room by his daughter, Rhema. It was lying on a blanket on the floor.

Relatives said that they had noticed no unusual actions Friday afternoon. The family had left the home about 3:30 in the afternoon, when Mr. Towle urged them to take his car saying he would not "have any use for it."

The family returned about 4:30. The daughter went to the cellar about 6 o'clock and noticed that a door leading into the laundry room was closed. As this door was usually open, Miss Towle thought something unusual might have happened and opened the door.

Dr. E. A. Sommer, a neighbor, was called, and stated that in his belief death was due to poison, probably strychnine. Dr. R. H. Sawyer, county physician, performed an autopsy Friday evening at Roberts' undertaking parlors and an analysis of the contents showed the presence of strychnine.

Mr. Towle, a well-to-do retired farmer, came to Lincoln from Wabash, Neb., in 1914.

He is survived by his wife, Mary A. Towle, six sons and three daughters.

Funeral arrangements have not been made, as it is expected that a daughter living in California will come to Lincoln for the services.

HANIHARA WILL SEND NEW NOTE

Japanese Ambassador at Washington to Address Communication to Hughes Shortly Explaining "Grave Consequences" Phrase.

RECALL OF ENVOY IS NOT CONSIDERED

Two Patriotic Societies Call Outdoor Mass Meetings For Sunday In Protest Against Exclusion Legislation, Tokio Reports.

PLAN EXPLANATION.

WASHINGTON, April 19. —To clarify the intent of the recent Japanese protest against the exclusion features of the immigration bill, a formal announcement on the subject probably will be made at the state department within twenty-four hours. It is expected to include a disclaimer on behalf of Japan that any threat was intended.

(Associated Press.)

TOKIO, April 19—Japanese Ambassador Hanihara, at Washington, shortly will address a new letter to Secretary Hughes in an effort to clarify Japan's attitude toward and expressly disclaiming any intent in use of the words "grave consequences" to imply a threat or signify a desire to interfere in domestic affairs of the United States, the Associated Press learned today on reliable authority.

The new note, which it is known here Hanihara desires to send, has been authorized, it is said, and instructions have been transmitted to him by the foreign office in Tokio.

Assurance was given today on the highest authority that the recall of Hanihara has not even been "seriously considered" by the Japanese government.

It was pointed but that the recal would be a serious tactical error amounting virtually to an admission that Japan's envoy actually had threatened the United States. Protesting that such is not the case, the government has reiterated that neither it nor Hanihara had any intention of threatening or seeking to coerce the United States in matters which Japan admits are dometic.

At least two patriotic societies are caled outdoor mass meetings for tomorrow, however, in protest against the American exclusion legislation. Leading business men attended an anti-exclusion meeting this afternoon.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE IS SUCCESS

Half of Goal Raised With Only Half of Workers Reporting.

First reports Saturday of workers in the Salvation Army drive for funds show that $5,000 of the $10,000 objective has been raised, although only 75 of the 184 workers have reported. The drive continues next week, when twelve districts will be canvassed that so far have not been given attention.

The drive, which began last Tuesday, has been very successful, Captain G. R. Hook believes.

"Nearly everybody is giving something," Captain Hook said.

No attempt has been made to make daily tabulations.

Convicted of Homicide In Connection With Omaha Rum War.

McArdle's body, bullet wounded, was found partially burned in a hay stack near Papillion, Neb., several months ago. Banker is said to be a resident of Nebraska City while Welter is said to own a farm near Falls City, Neb.

"After knowing what went through the minds of the jury, I think you fellows got off mighty lucky," Judge Fitzgerald said in passing sentence.

NO COMPENSATION FOR HORSE RIDER

Scott Broke Leg, But Labor Commissioner Rules He Was Not Employe.

Says He Rode Trick Horse for Rancher In Order to Get Transportation.

When Fred Scott volunteered to ride a horse owned by Walter Runyan, Antelope county rancher—the animal being one used in rodeo performances in that part of the state—he did not become Runyan's employe and the latter is not liable for compensation on account of Scott being thrown and his leg broken while enroute from one town to another, under the ruling of State Labor Commissioner Frye.

Runyan's four daughters were members of the rodeo troupe and Scott, who had been in the locality a short time was only a casual acquaintance of the family, offered to accompany them on the trip if a steed were furnished him. He wanted to travel to the next place and thought that would be a good way to get there. Runyan supplied the mount, but it was a rather fractious beast and on the road it indulged in a little rodeo exhibition of its own, with the result that the rider was dislodged from his seat and suffered the broken limb.

In passing on Scott's claim for compensation, the state labor commission finds that he was not an employe of Runyan, no contract having been made between them nor any wages paid for services. Commissioner Frye further declares that, even if Scott had been hired to ride the horse, his employment in that capacity would have been "casual" and nonrecompensable, because Runyan's regular business is that of running a ranch, and his connection with broncho busting shows was only a sideline.

Award to Traveling Man.

M. J. Borgmeyer, a traveling salesman in the employ of the Paxton-Davis Co., a wholesale house at Columbus, has been granted $787.50, in weekly installments of $15, for 30 per cent loss of the use of his right leg, which was broken in an accident last fall. The company resisted on the ground that the injury did not occur during the course of his employment.

Frank F. Smith of Lincoln gets $1,312.50, in $15 weekly payments, for 50 per cent loss of the use of his right hand in an accident which happened while he was working for the Lincoln Grain Co. It is also adjudged that there is some injury to the arm, the extent of which is still to be determined. The award for percentage disability is in addition to temporary compensation heretofore paid.

For the accidental loss of his left leg, Clark D. Lewis of Omaha is given $3,154, at the rate of $14.67 a week, against the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., surety for his employer. An additional claim may be filed within six months for injury to his left arm, right ankle, and pelvis.

The sum of $825, payable weekly in $15 allotments, is awarded to W. H. Lord against the Omaha Flour Mill Co. because of 44 per cent impairment of vision in his left eye from an occupational injury.

Hospital and medical expenses are also allowed in the foregoing cases.

Fire Damages The Leviathan

LONDON, April 19.—The giant liner Leviathan was damaged by fire today while lying at its dock at Southampton. The passengers had all left befor ethe fire was discovered.

Fire swept the upper deck and bridge and raged unchecked for ninety minutes. Three brigades of firemen finally extinguished the flames.

The smoking room was badly damaged. Water caused most of the damage on the lower deck

The fire was discovered at 2 o'clock. It broke out near the smoking room on the forward A deck. A dock brigade, assisted by a Southampton brigade and a crew of the Leviathan's firemen fought the flames. The firemen were forced to retreat from the blaze several times

After an investigation, ship officers attributed the cause of the fire to the fusing of wires in an electric heater.

DISCOVER NEW EVIDENCE IN MURDER CASE

Fire Inspector To Help Run Down Clues Which May Fix Responsibility For Slaying of Jefferis.

Local officials at Ogallala have wired to the state fire marshal's office that new and important evidence has been discovered tending to fix responsibility for the murder of John O. Jeffers, pump tender for the Union Pacific railroad at that place, last month and have asked for help in running down the clues.

Victim's House Burned.

Acting on this advice, Fire Inspector L. J. Butcher left during the day for Ogallala. He spent over a week there soon after the crime, looking into the burning of Jefferis' house in which the charred remains of the murdered man were found. Mr. Butcher got a lead or two at the time which threw suspicion rather strongly in the direction of a certain person, but the county attorney did not think there was enough evidence to justify an arrest on a homicide charge.

A man named Alex Swantowski, however, was arrested and given a term of 30 days in jail for drunkenness. It was thought at the time that some information bearing upon the crime might be obtained from him.

The facts developed by Inspector Butcher during his sojourn at Ogallala led him to believe that one individual killed Jefferis and another set fire to the house.

BEGIN INQUIRY OF COAST CONTRACTS

Senate Committee Turns Temporarily From Probe Of G. O. P. Convention

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Turning temporarily at least from its quest for information about the under surface events at the republican national convention at Chicago in 1920 the senate oil committee launched today into an investigation of the leasing of government lands in California naval reserve No. 2.

Leasing in this reserve which was known as "the Checkerboard" because of the alternating squares of government and privately owned lands, began in 1920 with the drilling of the offset wells to protect the government plots from drainage.

E. C. Finney, assistant secretary of the interior, and H. Foster Bain, director of the bureau of mines, were called by the committee for questioning in this line of inquiry. W. W. Tarbell, an oil operator now living at Bethel, Conn., also was recalled for cross examination in connection with observations in this field which he gave to the committee earlier in the week.

Evers Takes Chance's Post

(Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, April 19. — Johnny Evers today was appointed manager of the Chicago White Sox, succeeding Frank Chance who was ordered to return to California because of his health.

Chance who was prevented from joining the team due to an attack of influenza, caught a severe cold when he arrived here some time ago, apparently ready to take charge. After witnessing an exhibition game between the White Sox and the Giants he was removed to a hospital, where two operations were performed for sinus trouble.

Dr. Philip Kreuscher, personal physician of Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, said that Chance was in no immediate danger, but that he was suffering from bronchial asthma and that the California climate would undoubtedly improve his condition. The change in climate, he added, was necessary.

STATE BORDER BLOCKADE LIFTED

TOURISTS TO BE ALLOWED TO PROCEED

Arizona Governor Acts To Permit Entrance of 800 Stranded Motorists After Precautions Taken.

(Associated Press.)

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 19.—Governor G. W. P. Hunt of Arizona, early today lifted the foot and mouth disease blockade at Yuma, in order to permit the passage into this state of approximately 800 motorists reported in a pitiful condition as a result of their being held on the California side of the state line without camping equipment or sufficient food.

In a telegram to Dr. E. L. Stam, in charge of the quarantine at Yuma, the governor stated he felt "it would be safer to have these people pass after a thorough inspection and fumigation than to have to rush the guard.

"I do not want to see any bloodshed, but we must use every precaution possible,' 'the message continued. "Owing to the very serious situation as reported in your telephone message and the non-arrival of the military, you are authorized to issue permits after thorough inspection and fumigation, to persons that are now stranded on the California side. As soon as this is done have the embargo closed again. I realize what a menace it would be to Arizona to have this dreadful disease get a foothold.

To Begin Inspections.

YUMA, Ariz., April 19. — Upon receipt of instructions from Governor Hunt to permit entry into Arizona of some 800 tourists blockaded here, many of whom are suffering from lack of food and shelter, preparations were begun at once by city and quarantine officers to subject the travelers to inspection and fumigation so they might cross the state line as soon as posible.

To prevent holding up the motorists for several more days, which would be necessary if a fumigation station is to be erected at the Yuma bridge, it was planned to utilize a fumigation plant at Knobb, Cal., twelve miles west of here. If it is found possible to use this plant today, the tourists may all be on the Arizona side of the Colorado river before night.

Quarantine guards on duty here to enforce the embargo last night repelled an attempt to break the blockade.

The vanguard of more than 700 motorists from California, barred from entry under the embargo against vehicular traffic, swept past some of the guards on the Colorado bridge, but retreated when a cordon was formed on the Yuma side and fire hose brought up to play streams of water on the mob.

No one was hurt in the rush. There was no shooting, guards having been disarmed as a measure to prevent bloodshed. After retreating toward the west end of the bridge, the travelers, weakened and weary by several nights encampment in the desert, became quiet and order was restored.

To Seek Agreement.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—An effort will be made by the federal government to bring about an agreement looking to adjustment of the situation growing out of the embargoes of adjoining states against California to prevent spread of the foot and mouth disease.

Representatives of the affected states will be asked by the department of justice to consider an agreement providing protection for those not affected by the disease and at the same time relaxing restrictions.

Cantaloupe growers in the Imperial valley, where the disease has not appeared, and other farmers are said by Secretary Wallace to be threatened with heavy losses unless some relief is provided.

Urge Larger Funds.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—An additional appropriation of $1,500,000 would be available to fight the foot and mouth disease among California livestock under a resolution passed today by the house. The measure was sent to the senate by an unanimous viva voce vote.

CUT IN HOURS FOR RAIL MEN

Decision In Federal Court at Chicago Expected to Reduce Working Hours For Yard Employes From Twelve to Nine Hours.

(Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, April 19.—A decision expected to reduce working hours of railroad yardmasters and yardmen from twelve to nine hours was made today by Federal Judge Cliffe in the case of the interstate commerce commission against the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway.

The decision affects 8,000 yardmen employed by American railroads.

The case was based on the point of safety, since yardmasters and foremen handle orders by telephone.

The company was fined $3,000 and preparations were made to appeal the case, which may go to the United State supreme court.

MOTORMAN HURT IN A COLLISION

Henry Giest, 744 North Twelfth street, street car motorman, was badly cut by flying glass when the car under his control, was struck at Tenth and Rose streets about 4:30 p. m. Friday by a southbound street car which had been knocked from the tracks when struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. F. T. Kiser, according to E. R. Heiny, of the Lincoln Traction company.

Giest was in charge of a northbound car, which was loading passengers. The other car, in charge of H. G. Reiley, Bethany, was moving about twelve miles an hour. Heiny said. Reiley was not seriously injured.

The trolley cars were damaged to the extent of about $300, Heiny said. Mrs. Kiser, it was stated, was uninjured.

Abolition of Code System Urged In Address by Case

Several current topics were discussed by members of the Democratic Noon Luncheon club at the Grand hotel Saturday. Each person was given a printed slip naming the topic with which he was to deal, and then was called upon by the chairman to talk.

Education is one of the most important subjects of national concern, declared Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle, and even if not made a political issue, every democrat should be in favor of legislation aiding it.

Dr. J. D. Case recommended that the code system should be completely abolished.

Mrs. Alice Deweese asserted that more united effort would greatly help democratic candidates in their campaign.

The railroads' failure to offer reduced fares to national democratic convention delegates is one of the matters which should be urged on [illegible] convention here for action, said Mrs. Lue R. Spencer. Perhaps, she suggested, there is a desire to keep western candidates away from the meeting.

BRYAN NOT TO FILL VACANCY

Legislative Seat Vacated But Governor Says No Special Election To Be Called at Present Time.

GORDON REMOVES TO STATE OF COLORADO

No Special Session of Legislature In Prospect Unless Republicans Admit a Deficiency In Road Fund.

Legislative house district No. 100 of Nebraska is left without a representative in the state lawmaking assembly, by the removing of its elected member, R. P. Gordon of Hemingford, to Colorado. Mr. Gordon wrote to Governor Bryan enclosing his resignation, saying that he was going to make his home in the grizzly state. The resignation, however, was not necessary, as the Nebraska constitution provides that whenever a state senator or representative moves out of his district the office becomes automatically vacant.

If a legislative session were now in progress Governor Bryan would have the prerogative of appointing a successor to Mr. Gordon; but he possesses no authority to appoint where the vacancy occurs outside of a session. The only way in which it could be filled is to call a special election in the 100th district. Governor Bryan does not intend to do this, as he anticipates no special session of the legislature and if there is none there will be no duties for a representative to perform. Candidates for the next legislature, which will convene on the first Tuesday in January, 1925, were nominated in the late primaries and members will be elected in November.

"I see no occasion to consider the filling of this vacancy unless the republican members of the present legislature will admit that there is a deficiency in state highway funds from the former biennium and will pledge themselves to appropriate the money necessary to pay the contractors what the state owes them for work done," said the governor.

Mr. Bryan heard that the state senate's investigating committee is nearly ready to report its findings. He understands that the contractors who have been holding the sack for $300,000, more or less, by reason of the old appropriation having been overrun, are greatly interested in what the committee's conclusions will be regarding the deficiency. If the committee declines to admit any shortage of funds, the contractors will have nothing to expect from this legislature nor from the next one if it should happen to be under the same political control.

Governor Bryan informed newspaper representatives that, besides the unpaid bills of the contractors, there will be some $30,000 or $40,000 to pay for services during this biennium by members of the state engineer's office in supervising and checking up work on old projects not yet, or but recently, completed. As federal funds are received, applicable to the old contracts, the time of the state's engineers so employed on each project is paid for and the current appropriations is accordingly reimbursed.

OIL COMPANY FILES ANSWER

Sinclair's Reply to Government's Suit for Annulment of Teapot Dome Lease Contains Sweeping Denial of Fraud Charges.

(Associated Press.)

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 19.—The Mammoth Oil company's answer to the government's suit for annulment of the corporation's lease on the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve was filed in United States District court here today.

The answer contains sweeping denial of all charges of collusion and fraud contained in the government's bill of equqity and asserts that the lease on the reserve is legal and valid.

The answer contains thirty-three sections, each of which refers to a corresponding section in the government's bill. Numerous sections admit the allegations set forth in the corresponding sections of the government's bill, but allegations attacking the validity of the Sinclair corporation's lease are denied.

The reply concludes:

"This defendant (Mammoth Oil company) prays that the plaintiff (United States government) take nothing from its bill of complaint herein and that the defendant be hence dismissed without delay, and for all other and proper relief."

(Associated Press.)

Lane, auditor and legal adviser for the army air service, who testified recently before the senate Daugherty committee that he had been "dismissed" because he refused to "stay away" from the committee, will be continued in office by direction of Secretary Weeks and given an opportunity to defend himself against charges of insubordination.

ASK $26,000 FOR SON'S DEATH IN CROSSING CRASH

Mother of Glen Yetter Claims Railroad Company Was Negligent.

Suit for $26,112 for the death of Glen Yetter, Wesleyan university athlete, was filed in district court Saturday against the Missouri Pacific railway. Mrs. Mattie Yetter, administratrix of the estate of her son, is the plaintiff. Yetter, who was 18 years old, was killed January 5, last when the car in which he and other Wesleyan students were riding was struck by a Missouri Pacific train at Thirty-third and X streets.

The petition claims that buildings and telephone poles obstructed the view of the approaching train; that the crossing signal was out of order; that the headlight on the train was not bright enough; and that the train was going too fast.

Walter S. Yetter, the father, and Mrs. Yetter are named as the survivors.

Lincoln Man Ends His Life After Arrest

George A. Towle, 73, was found dead in the basement of his home at 338 South Twenty-ninth street at 6 o'clock Friday evening, death apparently having been caused by strychnine. Humiliation over his arrest and fine in Police court Friday on a charge of misdemeanor is believed to have caused Mr. Towle to end his life.

The body was found in the laundry room by his daughter, Rhema. It was lying on a blanket on the floor.

Relatives said that they had noticed no unusual actions Friday afternoon. The family had left the home about 3:30 in the afternoon, when Mr. Towle urged them to take his car saying he would not "have any use for it."

The family returned about 4:30. The daughter went to the cellar about 6 o'clock and noticed that a door leading into the laundry room was closed. As this door was usually open, Miss Towle thought something unusual might have happened and opened the door.

Dr. E. A. Sommer, a neighbor, was called, and stated that in his belief death was due to poison, probably strychnine. Dr. R. H. Sawyer, county physician, performed an autopsy Friday evening at Roberts' undertaking parlors and an analysis of the contents showed the presence of strychnine.

Mr. Towle, a well-to-do retired farmer, came to Lincoln from Wabash, Neb., in 1914.

He is survived by his wife, Mary A. Towle, six sons and three daughters.

Funeral arrangements have not been made, as it is expected that a daughter living in California will come to Lincoln for the services.

HANIHARA WILL SEND NEW NOTE

Japanese Ambassador at Washington to Address Communication to Hughes Shortly Explaining "Grave Consequences" Phrase.

RECALL OF ENVOY IS NOT CONSIDERED

Two Patriotic Societies Call Outdoor Mass Meetings For Sunday In Protest Against Exclusion Legislation, Tokio Reports.

PLAN EXPLANATION.

WASHINGTON, April 19. —To clarify the intent of the recent Japanese protest against the exclusion features of the immigration bill, a formal announcement on the subject probably will be made at the state department within twenty-four hours. It is expected to include a disclaimer on behalf of Japan that any threat was intended.

(Associated Press.)

TOKIO, April 19—Japanese Ambassador Hanihara, at Washington, shortly will address a new letter to Secretary Hughes in an effort to clarify Japan's attitude toward and expressly disclaiming any intent in use of the words "grave consequences" to imply a threat or signify a desire to interfere in domestic affairs of the United States, the Associated Press learned today on reliable authority.

The new note, which it is known here Hanihara desires to send, has been authorized, it is said, and instructions have been transmitted to him by the foreign office in Tokio.

Assurance was given today on the highest authority that the recall of Hanihara has not even been "seriously considered" by the Japanese government.

It was pointed out that the recal would be a serious tactical error amounting virtually to an admission that Japan's envoy actually had threatened the United States. Protesting that such is not the case, the government has reiterated that neither it nor Hanihara had any intention of threatening or seeking to coerce the United States in matters which Japan admits are dometic.

At least two patriotic societies are caled outdoor mass meetings for tomorrow, however, in protest against the American exclusion legislation. Leading business men attended an anti-exclusion meeting this afternoon.

LEGION FAVORS PENDING BILL

Veterans' Organization Endorses Insurance Bonus Measure and Quinn Asks That No Attempt Be Made to Amend On the Floor.

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 19. — The American Legion endorsed the insurance soldier bonus bill taken up by the senate in a message to each senator. Commander Quinn asked that no attempt be made on the floor to amend the pending bill.

Commander Quinn mentioned specifically the proposed amendment by finance committee democrats for a full cash payment option and expressed the belief that if it were adopted chances of the bonus bill becoming law would be endangered.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE IS SUCCESS

Half of Goal Raised With Only Half of Workers Reporting.

First reports Saturday of workers in the Salvation Army drive for funds show that $5,000 of the $10,000 objective has been raised, although only 75 of the 184 workers have reported. The drive continues next week, when twelve districts will be canvassed that so far have not been given attention.

The drive, which began last Tuesday, has been very successful, Captain G. R. Hook believes.

"Nearly everybody is giving something," Captain Hook said.

No attempt has been made to make daily tabulations.

M'ARDLE SLAYERS ARE EACH GIVEN TEN YEAR TERMS

Convicted of Homicide In Connection With Omaha Rum War.

OMAHA, April 19. —(A. P.) James Griffin, Omaha, garage man, William Welter and Jayce Banker, convicted of manslaughter recently in district court in connection with the death of Henry (Hank) McArdle, alleged Omaha rum war victim, were today sentenced to ten years in state prison, by District Judge Fitzgerald.

McArdle's body, bullet wounded, was found partially burned in a hay stack near Papillion, Neb., several months ago. Banker is said to be a resident of Nebraska City while Welter is said to own a farm near Falls City, Neb.

"After knowing what went through the minds of the jury, I think you fellows got off mighty lucky," Judge Fitzgerald said in passing sentence.

NO COMPENSATION FOR HORSE RIDER

Scott Broke Leg, But Labor Commissioner Rules He Was Not Employe.

Says He Rode Trick Horse for Rancher in Order to Get Transportation.

When Fred Scott volunteered to ride a horse owned by Walter Runyan, Antelope county rancher—the animal being one used in rodeo performances in that part of the state—he did not become Runyan's employe and the latter is not liable for compensation on account of Scott being thrown and his leg broken while enroute from one town to another, under the ruling of State Labor Commissioner Frye.

Runyan's four daughters were members of the rodeo troupe and Scott, who had been in the locality a short time was only a casual acquaintance of the family, offered to accompany them on the trip if a steed were furnished him. He wanted to travel to the next place and thought that would be a good way to get there. Runyan supplied the mount, but it was a rather fractious beast and on the road it indulged in a little rodeo exhibition of its own, with the result that the rider was dislodged from his seat and suffered the broken limb.

In passing on Scott's claim for compensation, the state labor commission finds that he was not an employe of Runyan, no contract having been made between them nor any wages paid for services. Commissioner Frye further declares that, even if Scott had been hired to ride the horse, his employment in that capacity would have been "casual" and nonrecompensable, because Runyan's regular business is that of running a ranch, and his connection with broncho busting shows was only a sideline.

Award to Traveling Man.

M. J. Borgmeyer, a traveling salesman in the employ of the Paxton-Davis Co., a wholesale house at Columbus, has been granted $787.50, in weekly installments of $15, for 30 per cent loss of the use of his right leg, which was broken in an accident last fall. The company resisted on the ground that the injury did not occur during the course of his employment.

Frank F. Smith of Lincoln gets $1,312.50, in $15 weekly payments, for 50 per cent loss of the use of his right hand in an accident which happened while he was working for the Lincoln Grain Co. It is also adjudged that there is some injury to the arm, the extent of which is still to be determined. The award for percentage disability is in addition to temporary compensation heretofore paid.

For the accidental loss of his left leg, Clark D. Lewis of Omaha is given $3,154, at the rate of $14.67 a week, against the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., surety for his employer. An additional claim may be filed within six months for injury to his left arm, right ankle, and pelvis.

The sum of $825, payable weekly in $15 allotments, is awarded to W. H. Lord against the Omaha Flour Mill Co. because of 44 per cent impairment of vision in his left eye from an occupational injury.

Hospital and medical expenses are also allowed in the foregoing cases.

Fire Damages The Leviathan

LONDON, April 19.—The giant liner Leviathan was damaged by fire today while lying at its dock at Southampton. The passengers had all left befor ethe fire was discovered.

Fire swept the upper deck and bridge and raged unchecked for ninety miiutes. Three brigades of firemen finally extinguished the flames.

The smoking room was badly damaged. Water caused most of the damage on the lower deck.

The fire was discovered at 2 o'clock. It broke out near the smoking room on the forward A deck. A dock brigade, assisted by a Southampton brigade and a crew of the Leviathan's firemen fought the flames. The firemen were forced to retreat from the blaze several times.

After an investigation, ship officers attributed the cause of the fire to the fusing of wires in an electric heater.

DISCOVER NEW EVIDENCE IN MURDER CASE

Fire Inspector To Help Run Down Clues Which May Fix Responsibility For Slaying of Jefferis.

Local officials at Ogallala have wired to the state fire marshal's office that new and important evidence has been discovered tending to fix responsibility for the murder of John O. Jeffers, pump tender for the Union Pacific railroad at that place, last month and have asked for help in running down the clues.

Victim's House Burned.

Acting on this advice, Fire Inspector L. J. Butcher left during the day for Ogallala. He spent over a week there soon after the crime, looking into the burning of Jefferis' house in which the charred remains of the murdered man were found. Mr. Butcher got a lead or two at the time which threw suspicion rather strongly in the direction of a certain person, but the county attorney did not think there was enough evidence to justify an arrest on a homicide charge.

A man named Alex Swantowski, however, was arrested and given a term of 30 days in jail for drunkenness. It was thought at the time that some information bearing upon the crime might be obtained from him.

The facts developed by Inspector Butcher during his sojourn at Ogallala led him to believe that one individual killed Jefferis and another set fire to the house.

BEGIN INQUIRY OF COAST CONTRACTS

Senate Committee Turns Temporarily From Probe Of G. O. P. Convention

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Turning temporarily at least from its quest for information about the under surface events at the republican national convention at Chicago in 1920 the senate oil committee launched today into an investigation of the leasing of government lands in California naval reserve No. 2.

Leasing in this reserve which was known as "the Checkerboard" because of the alternating squares of government and privately owned lands, began in 1920 with the drilling of the offset wells to protect the government plots from drainage.

E. C. Finney, assistant secretary of the interior, and H. Foster Bain, director of the bureau of mines, were called by the committee for questioning in this line of inquiry. W. W. Tarbell, an oil operator now living at Bethel, Conn., also was recalled for cross examination in connection with observations in this field which he gave to the committee earlier in the week.

(Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, April 19. — Johnny Evers today was appointed manager of the Chicago White Sox, succeeding Frank Chance who was ordered to return to California because of his health.

Chance who was prevented from joining the team due to an attack of influenza, caught a severe cold when he arrived here some time ago, apparently ready to take charge. After witnessing an exhibition game between the White Sox and the Giants he was removed to a hospital, where two operations were performed for sinus trouble.

Dr. Philip Kreuzcher, personal physician of Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, said that Chance was in no immediate danger, but that he was suffering from bronchial asthma and that the California climate would undoubtedly improve his condition. The change in climate, he added, was necessary.

SENATE APPROVES IMMIGRATION BILL BY BIG MAJORITY

Measure Carries Practically Same Provisions As Favored by House.

Expected Conference Will Reconcile the Differences Without Much Trouble.

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 19 — The immigration bill of 1924 carrying substantially the same provisions relating to Asiatic exclusion and other important changes in basic policy recently approved by the house was passed last night by the senate by a vote of 62 to 6

On the final roll call as upon every important test vote taken since the measure was first reported the senate registered its decision by a larger majority even than in the house where the vote on passage was 322 to 71

The six senators opposing the bill in its amended form on the last roll call were Chairman Colt Rhode Island and Weller Maryland republicans and Bayard Delaware Gerry, Rhode Island King Utah and Walsh Massachusetts democrats.

Expect Early Agreement

As it goes to conference the new bill contains few changes which are expected to prolong discussion Attention however has been called to the possibility of important changes being worked out there Slight differences in phraseology exist between the house and senate drafts in many sections one of them the vital Japanese exclusion provision and while no evidence in the slightest degree parliamentary observers called attention to the possibilities offered for modifications in conference

White house spokesmen declared President Coolidge had no comment to offer upon the senate action nor upon the situation which has grown out of the failure of congress to accept the advice of the state department against bringing the Japanese into the definitely excluded classes

Senate Bill More Stringent

The senate bill was described by its author Senator Reed republican Pennsylvania, as even more restrictive than that passed by the house Both measures adopt 2 per cent of the census of 1890 as the basis for fixing quotas but the house bill permits certain non quota classifications which are not included in that of the senate Among the exceptions are the children and other dependent relatives of citizens and skilled labor and families

A maximum admittance of 150 000 a year is fixed by the senate bill against an estimated quota "total" of 162 000 in the Johnson bill, exclusive of exemptions Senator Reed estimated the house bill actually would provide for the legal admission of "twice the total" or 324,000

These estimates as compared with the existing law, show a reduction of 220 000 under the senate bill and of about 208 000 under the house measure

Look to American Harmony.

In the final hours of debate the senate refused to extend the quota restrictions to North and South American countries as proposed by Senator Willis republican, Ohio Democratic and republican leaders joined in opposing the move as tending to destroy the work of years, toward pan-American harmony

Five points of variance with the house bill which will be ironed out in conference were pointed out to the senate by Senator Reed They are.

The system of vise certificates provided by the senate instead of the stamped passport system approved by the house The 'mechanics and objects' are the same Senator Reed explained

The failure of the senate to authorize any exceptions from quota limitations

The deletion by the senate of sections providing for supervision of alien seamen arriving at American ports

The provision of the senate for future operation of a national-origin system of selection based upon the entire population of the United States if congress approves a survey and report on the subject made by the secretaries of interior, commerce and labor

The Simmons amendment adopted by the senate which authorizes immigration authorities to give preference to farm labor when any state certifies a shortage exists in that necessity

"I believe in the church because it is the most powerful organization in the world for righteousness As long as it tries to promulgate the teachings of its great Founder it is entitled to my support The results achieved throughout its long history justify the hope of greater achievements in the future For that reason it should appeal to every one who has the good of humanity at heart There is no appeal to the human soul that is quite as powerful as a worshipful and beautiful church service There is nothing that so inspires a discouraged person as a well-thought-out sermon by one who knows human problems and is consecrated to the task of lifting up his fellow-men It is because I need and get such inspiration that I attend church To the degree that I can pass on to others the blessings thus received I find that happiness is achieved'

DISMISS CHARGES AGAINST WALTON

Judge Finds Former Oklahoma Governor Did Not Divert Public Funds.

(Associated Press.)

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 19.—Judge A. S. Wells sustained demurrers of J. C. Walton, deposed governor, to five charges of converting public funds and freed Walton of all charges in state district court late yesterday.

The charges have been pending five months.

Concluding the statement of his decision, Judge Wills said:

"I based my opinion upon the laws of Oklahoma and I hope that J. C. Walton will be fair enough to say he got a square deal from at least one klansman."

Walton was charged with having caused T. P. Edwards, his personal chauffeur, to be paid with funds from the health department.

The judge based his action on the statute which reads:

"Any state employe or deputy of such who shall divert any funds from the original object shall be guilty of felony."

He ruled that Walton could not have used the funds alleged to have been diverted in custody of Dr. A. E. Davenport, then state health commissioner.

Charges of diverting funds are pending against Dr. Davenport and Edwards.

Buck Heads New Department in The University

Philo M. Buck, present dean of the arts and science college of the state university, will head a newly created department of comparative literature, beginning September 1. A statement issued Thursday afternoon, following a meeting of the board of regents, states that the change is being made at the request of Dean Buck, but does not name his successor.

"It is the intention of the regents to allow him reasonable time for study and writing," according to the statement, "and he is particularly to devote such leisure as he can find from teaching to writing and study."

Dean Buck will also give some instructional work in the English department, in which he was a professor before assuming the deanship.

The budget for the coming school year was passed by the board at this meeting.

PLAN A SUCCESS.

NEW YORK, April 19.—(A. P.) — The home hospital plan for the treatment of tuberculosis, under which an entire family is treated when a parent is afflicted instead of the parent being sent to a sanitarium, and the children to an institution, was declared successful in arresting the disease and preventing its spread, in a report issued yesterday by the New York association for improving the condition of the poor.

GAINES BRINGS $25,000 ACTION

Plaintiff Charges Malicious Prosecution—Lincoln Officer Named Defendant.

Malicious prosecution, and false imprisonment are charged by Perry C. Gaines in a suit for $25,000 filed in district court Friday against Stephen Warrick and Frank Koenig, sheriff of Scotts Bluff county, and Lieut. Joseph A. Rymer of the Lincoln police force.

Gaines says he was arrested in Lincoln by Lieut. Rymer on a false complaint sworn to by Warrick, and that he was held in the Lincoln city jail until Sheriff Koenig arrived to return him to Scotts Bluff county.

The charge against him, of disposing of property mortgaged to the First National bank of Denver, was later dismissed by the Scotts Bluff county attorney, Gaines claims.

Gaines declares that the prosecution was for the purpose of causing him humiliation and discrediting him.

A number of members of First-Plymouth have been asked why they believe in and attend the church. Mr. F. A. Peterson, the superintendent of the church school replies:

"I believe in the church because it is the most powerful organization in the world for righteousness. As long as it tries to promulgate the teachings of its great Founder it is entitled to my support. The results achieved throughout its long history justify the hope of greater achievements in the future. For that reason it should appeal to every one who has the good of humanity at heart. There is no appeal to the human soul that is quite as powerful as a worshipful and beautiful church service. There is nothing that so inspires a discouraged person as a well-thought-out sermon by one who knows human problems and is consecrated to the task of lifting up his fellow-men. It is because I need and get such inspiration that I attend church. To the degree that I can pass on to others the blessings thus received, I find that happiness is achieved."

NINE LIVES ARE LOST IN CHICAGO FACTORY BLAZE

Several Injured May Die As Result of Collapse of Four Story Structure.

Seven Firemen And Two Unidentified Civilians Killed By Falling Wall.

(Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, April 19.—Seven firemen and two unidentified civilians were killed and a score of persons, including two women, were injured, some probably fatally last night when a burning wall of a four-story box factory on the West Side collapsed after an explosion.

The men killed and injured were trapped on the fire escape of the structure, on ladders against it, or on a fire tower which was playing streams on the blazing roof. Tons of masonry swept down on them so suddenly that none had opportunity to reach safety. Flying stones and brick injured spectators.

Police and firemen, aided by rescue agencies, dug frantically into the smouldering ruins all through the night, searching for others thought to have perished. Only one man of truck Company No. 12, first to respond to the alarm, was not in a hospital or morgue or reported missing when a checkup of the organization was made.

An inquiry to determine the cause of the rapidity of the fire's spread and the explosion was begun by Coroner Oscar Wolff and Morgan A. Collins, chief of police, who ordered all owners of concerns and employes in the building brought in for questioning. Stories that quantities of benzine had been stored in the building and that dissatisfaction existed in the neighborhood because the top floor had been leased recently to a negro church were the main points of investigation.

Known As a Landmark.

The building, known as Curran hall, was a Ghetto landmark for fifty years. The flames had been lapping at the upper stories for nearly an hour before the explosion occurred and a score of fire companies were working to prevent the spread of the flames through the thickly populated tenement sections nearby.

Battalion Chief Kerwin, working with firement on the third floor, ordered them from the building when he saw the roof begin to buckle. Before half had reached safety the explosion occurred, the falling wall carrying two floors with it, smashing a new $30,000 fire tower and catapulting firemen headlong into the flames. Some were pitched clear of the flames. Spectators who had crowded through fire lines were deluged with hot masonry and twisted iron.

Numerous acts of heroism were performed by rescuers who crowded into the steaming ruins. Clergymen donned fire helmets and coats to bring spiritual consolation to the dying. More than a dozen firemen, rendered unconscious by the explosion, were drawn from the flames by companions. Officials summoned lifting apparatus and volunteers aided officers in breaking up wreckage to search for dead and injured.

To Care for Families.

John F. Cullerton, fire commissioner, said the city would give $5,000 to each of the families of the dead and provision would be made for the injured.

Public appeals for funds for the injured and families of the dead were planned by Chicago newspapers.

The firemen known to have perished were:

Captain John Brennan, Lieut. Frank Forsch, Michael Devine, Thomas Kelly, Frank Leavy, Samuel Warren and Edward Kersting.

The casualties were the greatest firemen said, since the stock yards fire of December, 1910, when Captain Horan and twenty men were killed.

The damage, estimated at $250,000, made a total of $750,000 estimated fire loss yesterday from the Curran hall fire and the fire earlier in the day when three Armour and Company warehouses were partly destroyed.

Food Studies Are Bringing Benefits In Many Counties

Woman in Dawson and Hall counties have reported that the rural appetites for all kinds of vegetables have been decidedly improved during the last month as a result of the food and nutrition project of the agricultural extension service which is being given there by Miss Florence Atwood of the extension service. One lady reports that she went home from the meeting determined to use carrots for the vegetables in her daily menu for once. She added the carrots to the fruit salad. Her husband didn't like carrots but he pronounced this camouflaged dish the best he had ever eaten. Another lady announced before the meeting of ther home club that carrots and spinach could not be prepared appetizingly. She ate a sample of everything made there and liked all of them. One woman reports she gained three and one-half pounds after eating the kind of foods prepared at these meetings

Miss Atwood is giving this project in twelve counties of Nebraska this year. She meets once each month with the chosen leaders of five or more rural women's clubs and gives them a connected series of lessons on food and its relation to health, preparation of vegetables, planning the daily meals, comparison of menus, and the amounts of foods that should be eaten. She is now working on the third of these topics, the study of the daily food calendars and the planning of daily meals. The leaders who meet with Miss Atwood must take the instruction back to their own clubs. A detailed report of the work that has been done is given each month by each of these leaders These reports include any comments that the women have to make about the success of the project in their community.

Captain John Brennan, Lieut. Frank Forsch, Michael Devine, Thomas Kelly, Frank Leavy, Samuel Warren and Edward Kersting.

The casualties were the greatest, firemen said, since the stock yards fire of December, 1910, when Captain Horan and twenty men were killed.

The damage, estimated at $250,000, made a total of $750,000 estimated fire loss yesterday from the Curran hall fire and the fire earlier in the day when three Armour and Company warehouses were partly destroyed.

Food Studies Are Bringing Benefits In Many Counties

Woman in Dawson and Hall counties have reported that the rural appetites for all kinds of vegetables have been decidedly improved during the last month as a result of the food and nutrition project of the agricultural extension service which is being given there by Miss Florence Atwood of the extension service. One lady reports that she went home from the meeting determined to use carrots for the vegetables in her daily menu for once. She added the carrots to the fruit salad. Her husband didn't like carrots but he pronounced this camouflaged dish the best he had ever eaten. Another lady announced before the meeting of ther home club that carrots and spinach could not be prepared appetizingly. She ate a sample of everything made there and liked all of them. One woman reports she gained three and one-half pounds after eating the kind of foods prepared at these meetings.

Miss Atwood is giving this project in twelve counties of Nebraska this year. She meets once each month with the chosen leaders of five or more rural women's clubs and gives them a connected series of lessons on food and its relation to health, preparation of vegetables, planning the daily meals, comparison of menus, and the amounts of foods that should be eaten. She is now working on the third of these topics, the study of the daily food calendars and the planning of daily meals. The leaders who meet with Miss Atwood must take the instruction back to their own clubs. A detailed report of the work that has been done is given each month by each of these leaders. These reports include any comments that the women have to make about the success of the project in their community.

A COMMON PURPOSE

The "Lower Taxes—Less Legislation league" has been launched in Ohio.

It starts under the most auspicious circumstances. In every state of the union there has been a widespread demand for reduced taxes, and a growing appreciation there can be no noticeable cut in governmental expenditures until the agencies of government are curtailed.

As has been the case in most of the great political reformations that have swept this country, the new movement comes from the soil. Its chief sponsors are farm organizations. Its membership have been principally recruited from those engaged in agricultural pursuits. It has the endorsement of the Ohio State Grange, the Ohio State Farm Bureau Federation, the New York State Grange, the New York State Farm Bureau Federation and the Virginia State Farm Bureau Federation.

"Let's go back to the ways of our fathers," the slogan adopted by the organization reads. "Simplicity, honesty, and economy in government."

The analysis of the tax problem made by the league is fundamentally and economically sound. Here is what it has to say:

"The present budget system, which was largely responsible for the excellent fiscal position at which the government had arrived, must be continued.

"There must be no extraordinary expenditure of public moneys beyond the sum estimated by the executive departments as sufficient to conduct the public business efficiently and economically.

"It is obvious that the people themselves are largely responsible for the maintenance of these conditions which are stipulated as fundamental to tax reduction on the scale recommended by the treasury department. It is they who must refrain from asking their representatives and senators to introduce bills entailing new and extraordinary expenditures."

Strange as it may seem, the five farm organizations back of this movement to curb expensive and useless legislation give voice to sentiments which, if their origin were not known, might be charged to Wall street. In the literature which they have put out in support of their program, these paragraphs occur:

"We all have to eat. If the grocer's landlord has to pay higher taxes, the grocer has to pay higher rent and we have to pay the grocer higher prices for our food.

"We all have to sleep. If the man who owns the house we rent has to pay higher taxes, then we have to pay higher rent.

"If the railroads have to pay higher taxes they have to charge higher rates for carrying coal, and we have to pay higher prices for our fuel."

In other words, the possession of real and personal property is not necessary to force every individual in America to contribute towards the tax burden. Every man and woman pays, although he of she may not own a foot of ground, or a dollar in the bank or a bond or a certificate of stock. Out of every $8 of national income, $1 goes for taxes, federal, state and local. The league very properly points out that a man with an income of $24 a week is paying $3 weekly in taxes, whether he owns a cents worth of property.

The difficulty of political expression in America's complex industrial organization is strikingly shown in this case. Here in one single great industry are two directly contradictory demands. On the one hand may be found large numbers of those engaged in agriculture who call upon congress to desist from legislation which calls for the creation of new activities of government. Opposing this group are those farmers who are now besieging congress to enact a mass of legislation designed to relieve the agricultural situation. They have centered their hopes particularly on the McNary-Haugen bill, which admittedly would add a larger number of employes to the public payroll than any other department with the possible exception of the postoffice. Even in the same industry, it would seem there is no community of interest, and no common purpose.

Until America comes to a more sane understanding of what constitutes government, and what may be expected of government, confusion and added tax burdens will increase to the serious injury of industry of all kinds. There must be a more general knowledge of government in order to formulate a common program of action. It must be based upon principles which are inherently sound. Legislation must simplify government, instead of adding to it, as is contemplated in the McNary-Haugen bill.

"I have an uncle, president of a bank in Kentucky in the burley tobacco belt," a prominent Kansas City business man recently wrote. "He pooled his tobacco. He wrote me within the last two weeks saying he has not been paid for his 1922 crop. Wheat is very low because surplus producing countries, who need the money, are selling at the buyers' bid. Poverty stricken Europe is living on half rations. World's finances were never worse. We must have increased thrift, sound judgment and intelligent farming. We need fewer government leeches and more honest political executives. Increasd governmental control means increased taxes and decreased earnings for the citizens.

"Dr. Ely of the University of Wisconsin shows that the states will soon absorb by taxes all of the income of farm lands. It is a principle of law that to take the income of property is practically the same as to take the property."

Government must be made less expensive, or it will defeat itself by bankrupting those who support it That is the significance of this new agricultural revolt against those in the same industry, who see a panacea for all ills in more government as a result of legislative action.

A USELESS ENTERPRISE.

Aside from helping the United States navy department to spend the appropriation of several hundred million dollars provided for it by a generous congress, it is very doubtful whether the much-advertised "around-the-world flight" by Major Martin and his fellow aviators will accomplish anything of particular value to the sea arm of our fighting forces. As a big lark for those taking part, the venture is no doubt very thrilling; but its practical benefits are not visible to the country at large.

The airplanes left California some three weeks ago and proceeded by easy stages up the Pacific coast. One of our transcontinental mail flyers could probably have made the flight to Alaska in half the time they did, but of course he wouldn't have been able to do so if he had stopped to attend banquets and be otherwise entertained at points along the route. As that seems to be one of the objects of this trip, the progress has not been especially rapid.

This phase of the undertaking need not be dwelt on, however. Assuming that the naval fliers have done and are doing their best to achieve the performance they set out, the results so far do not appear especially gratifying. For ten days the party has been stalled in Alaska. The only happening of note occurring within that time was an accident which compelled the commander of the expedition to descend in Portage bay and wait for the destroyers to come and rescue him. Leakage of the oil from the crankcase of the flying machine's engine was given as the reason for this mishap.

The period of waiting before starting on the flight over the string of islands extending into the Pacific ocean was necessitated by raw and stormy weather. It is a tribute to the good sense of Major Martin's party that they did not attempt this passage in the face of Arctic winds, snowstorms and temperatures. They may be laid up a week or two longer before the weather opens up sufficiently to justify their going ahead.

It might be remarked, at this juncture, that if aviators could always pick favorable climatic conditions for their flights the risks would be greatly reduced. But our aerial mail carriers across the United States are making their trips every twenty-four hours regardless of weather. They are probably enduring more hardships and certainly performing a great deal more useful service than the navy fliers on their trip around the world.

In the course of time, the Martin expedition may get across to the Asiatic coast without any serious casualty. If they succeed thus far, they should be able to negotiate the route laid out for them across Asia and Europe, during the spring and summer. Of course, they may have some smashups which will end the whole expedition, but if they continue to go as slowly and as carefully as they have done up to this time, the chances are they will be able to keep traveling.

Probably the most hazardous and difficult portion of the whole journey will be when they leave Norway for an over-ocean flight to Iceland, and thence to Greenland and the continent of North America. They will have three long stretches of salt water to cover, and accidents might happen as easily there as anywhere else But ships of the American navy will be somewhere about to rescue any of the aviators who is compelled to descend, and the flight will be aided by the use of wireless communication.

Suppose that the navy's fliers do succeed in getting back to the United States by next August or September. They will have accomplished a spectacular achievement, it is true, but what else can be said of it? The cost of establishing commercial service over such a route, for any considerable portion of it, would be prohibitive, even if a project of that kind were found practicable. So far as any military or naval advantage to the United States is concerned, the journey might as well not have been taken.

It would be worth infinitely more to the American people if the government would concentrate its aerial experiments on developing communications within the territorial realm of the United States and making them serve the needs of this country, instead of squandering so much money on a project enabling a few individuals to feed their own vanity and see the world at public expense.

Get the Setting.

Everybody has to play the part of sociology. Whether you're trying to act as peacemaker in the organized welfare known as "the great American home" or whether you're charged with hiring and firing a typist, a knowledge of sociology is desirable.

The first thing a trained sociologist does is to "get the setting." In other words, before you can apply a remedy you first must learn what is wrong and why.

Suppose your five year old son tells you a lie. Suppose you spank him for it, without knowing why he lies. You can easily understand what a poor sociologist you would be if the real reason for his lying was fear of you and your spanking.

A young woman of my acquaintance was recently expelled from college. The dean who caused the expulsion was a good detective, but a bad sociologist. A dean of another school, who "got the setting," learned that the girl had been so held down all her life by stern parents that she literally broke loose when going away from home for an education gave her the first opportunity. This second dean tactfully guided and directed the girl; and, incidentally, saved her from being disgraced in the eyes of the very parents whose too-rigid unbringing had caused the whole trouble.

The reason why some bosses are good and some aren't is largely a matter of willingness to "find the setting." The really smart executive makes it his business to learn something of the home conditions of his employees. He knows that the second-assistant bookkeeper's tardiness is due to walking the floor all night with a sick baby; he gets somebody to advise the stenographer to have her tonsils removed, and thereby prevents much absenteeism; he knows that the shipping clerk is fitting himself by night study for a better job; he knows that one of his spurting-type salesmen is going stale and needs a two-day fishing trip.

Ninety-nine out of every hundred people would be more agreeable, more fair, and more successful if they would habitually analyze the human situations with which they have to deal and make a sincere effort to understand the underlying causes.

"Get the setting" is not only good sociology—its good business.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Your questions on health topics will be answered by Dr. Dorothy Bocker if you address her in care of this newspaper.

J. L. M.: My son, age five, has a cavity in one of his back teeth. Is it worth the money to have a "baby tooth" filled?

A. Yes. First, because the child is probably in pain. Second, because poisons are absorbed from decaying teeth. Third, the permanent teeth are just below the gum and are harmed by the drainage from decaying teeth. Fourth, the "baby teeth" set the pattern for the permanent teeth, and I assume you don't want your son's jaw to be disshapen when he grows up. Incidentally, I wonder if your child gets enough milk; a food rich in calcium which contributes much towards producing good sound teeth.

Slips On Steps In Theatre; Asks $2,600 Damages

Myrtle B. Headrich slipped and fell on the steps in the balcony of the Liberty theatre and received injuries which caused her much expense and pain, she says in a suit filed in District court Saturday against the Princess Amusement co., owner of the Liberty theatre. She asks $2,604.50 damages.

The steps were not lighted and there was no usher to conduct patrons to their seats, the petition says, in its claim that the company was negligent.

Rehearing Will Be Asked in Bread Case

After going over the United States supreme court opinion holding the Nebraska standard weight bread law unconstitutional and also the dissenting opinion by Justice Brandeis, Attorney General Spillman and his assistant, Lloyd Dort, have decided to apply for a rehearing. They believe the court was mistaken in holding that a provision limiting maximum as well as minimum weights of loaves was unreasonable. The majority opinion was written by Justice Butler of Minnesota appointed a year ago by the late President Harding

Has Ordinance to Regulate Cutting of City Curbing

Declaring that indiscriminate cutting of curbs must stop and that the city will take supervision and control of the cutting, Commissioner A. P. Cowgill Saturday announced that he has had drafted an ordinance which places the entire problem in the hands of the city engineer, and lays down rules governing the manner in which curbs can be cut.

A ordinance similar to the one which the commissioner has was turned down by the council a few weeks ago because of several clauses which were considered too drastic. It was said Saturday, however, that the new regulations meet with the approval of the commissioners and that it will be passed. It will be presented Monday.

The ordinance provides that cutting of curbs can only be done by the city engineer and then only upon application of the property owner. It provides further that it will be unlawful for any person to push, drive or back any vehicle or tractor over the curbing, or to build a bridge of any material for the purpose of moving any vehicle over the curb. The street department's "puddle jumper" is given exemption by a special paragraph.

Provision is made for the bridging of gutters and the moving of vehicles across the curb, when application is made to the city engineer's office.

Stiff penalties are provided for violation of any of the provisions of the ordinance.

CHAPTER LXX.

That Richard Rankin should accept Winifred's invitation for Sunday was a foregone conclusion. She had taken that for granted.

What she had not taken for granted was the sudden change in the weather. In place of the brilliant skies that had reigned during the first days of October, clouds hung low and threatening.

On her way home from church at noon, Winifred shivered. This afternoon, she would don her heaviest motorcoat—the one that had come home only yesterday. Even so, she would be chilly.

"I ought to have bought a closed car to replace father's limousine that was sold last spring," she reflected. "Then Richard and I could have enjoyed our jaunt. But Donald is so deadly economical with other people's money."

She repeated the statement to Richard by way of apology for the open touring car in which they drove up to Van Cortland Park that afternoon.

"I am afraid you will be too cold," she remarked.

He glanced at her laughingly. "That is a reflection upon my new overcoat!"

"I had noticed that you looked very swell but I attributed it to you, not to the coat," she laughed back. "Now I observe that you have made another necessary purchase,——and I am glad."

"It, like the dress-clothes, was made possible by that same money of which I spoke to you the other day," he said,—"the couple of hundreds I lent a chap months ago. Had he not returned it, I might still be shabby and shivering. However, I made that cash do a lot of service,—though now it is about gone. And my conscience hurts me for spending the money on myself."

"Don't be absurd!" she reproved. "If you had not done that, you would have been uncomfortable in mind and body."

"And would not have the happiness of appearing in public with you," he amended. "My appearance was positively disgraceful. And other woman in your position would habe been ashamed to have me in her house. By way," changing his tone suddenly "since you have noticed my new coat, may I speak of yours? It is lovely."

"I like it," she admitted, drawing the soft, gray wrap more closely about her and snuggling down into the fur collar. "I need it today. I ought to have a closed car for this weather, instead of this open one."

"You are buying a limousine," he questioned.

"I was going to get one last month," she replied. "But Mr. Muir advised against it. He wondered if I might not use taxis for a while and see if I really need a closed auto."

She added aloud the opinion she had formed in her mind several hours ago.

"My guardian is very careful about other people's money," she complained.

"Then you will not buy a limousine, perhaps?" was the interrogative comment.

The suggestion conveyed by the words awoke the girl's sumbering indignation toward Muir.

"You mean that I must get his permission to buy one?" she demanded.

"Not exactly that," Rankin demurred. "Only I know Mr. Muir is your advisor—and, I may add, a very wise one. It would be natural that you should do just as he counsels."

"I shall do just as I please!" she exclaimed. "If my guardian and I do not see things in the same light, then I must follow my own judgment — as I have already done," she added.

Her companion leaned closer towards her. "What you say makes me know that my surmise is correct," he remarked

"What surmise?"

"That Muir would never have consented to your lending me a cent of the money," he said daringly. "You know he would not"

As she did not answer, he hurried on.

"I know, too, as surely as I know anything, that you have had to acknowledge to him that you have helped me in the darkest time of my life. And he has disapproved it it."

"Sh!" she warned, glancing towards the chauffeur. "This is not the time to discuss confidential matters"

"No," he admitted. "It is not. But—you must let me talk about this later"

She ignored his serious tone, and answered with a smile. "All right! Provided you do not start an argument until after dinner tonight."

He changed his manner to suit hers. "Very well. But then I shall say what I please So be prepared."

SENATE WORKING ON BONUS BILL

Predicted That Only Few Days Will Be Necessary to Bring Its Passage.

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 19.— The soldier bonus bill was taken under consideration by the senate last night with the prediction by Senator Curtis, republican, Kansas, its sponsor, that only a "few days" would be necessary for its passage.

Political skirmishes marked its official entry before the senate, with their proposal for inclusion in the bill of an option for full cash payment to veterans.

Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, asked Senator Curtis to seek the views of President Coolidge on the bill as passed by the house and ordered reported by the senate finance committee with the 20-year endowment policy provision.

"If reports, coming to us through American Legion officers that President Coolidge will sign the pending bill but would veto a measure with a full cash payment option are true," Senator Harrison said, "we democrats will gladly expedite passage of this measure."

Step into any first class drug store and get a 50-cent tube or par of "Deo," the famous Dennis' Eucalyptus Ointment. Heat a spoonful in a tin plate and inhale deep breaths of the scothing vapor. Do this night and morning, and you will experience the greatest relief you have ever known. No more nasty dripping in the throat, no stopped-up feeling, no buzzing in the ears. You will feel better, breathe better and sleep better. The vapor deposits an antiseptic film of oil over diseased membranes, destroying the germs and gradually healing raw spots.

HASTINGS PEOPLE CALLED TO VOTE

Two Improvement Projects Held Up By Injunction To Be Passed Upon.

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., April 19.—Because of injunction suits now pending in district court against two projects backed by the city council, that body last night voted to call a special election for May 27 to decide the points of issue.

These projects are the erection of a city office building east of the auditorium and the purchase of a new tourist park.

The election will not remove the final decision of the suits from the jurisdiction of the court, City Attorney Whelan said today, but through the vote the council hopes to secure popular ratification of the projects and vindication of its judgment.

The suit against the building was filed by Mrs. John Slaker and Mrs. J. P. A. Black, acting for the Hastings Woman's club, while the one against the park was filed late Thursday by William Madgett and seven other men.

A COMMON PURPOSE

The "Lower Taxes—Less Legislation league" has been launched in Ohio.

It starts under the most auspicious circumstances. In every state of the union there has been a widespread demand for reduced taxes, and a growing appreciation there can be no noticeable cut in governmental expenditures until the agencies of government are curtailed.

As has been the case in most of the great political reformations that have swept this country, the new movement comes from the soil. Its chief sponsors are farm organizations. Its membership have been principally recruited from those engaged in agricultural pursuits. It has the endorsement of the Ohio State Grange, the Ohio State Farm Bureau Federation, the New York State Grange, the New York State Farm Bureau Federation and the Virginia State Farm Bureau Federation.

"Let's go back to the ways of our fathers," the slogan adopted by the organization reads. "Simplicity, honesty, and economy in government."

The analysis of the tax problem made by the league is fundamentally and economically sound. Here is what it has to say:

"The present budget system, which was largely responsible for the excellent fiscal position at which the government had arrived, must be continued.

"There must be no extraordinary expenditure of public moneys beyond the sum estimated by the executive departments as sufficient to conduct the public business efficiently and economically.

"It is obvious that the people themselves are largely responsible for the maintenance of these conditions which are stipulated as fundamental to tax reduction on the scale recommended by the treasury department. It is they who must refrain from asking their representatives and senators to introduce bills entailing new and extraordinary expenditures."

Strange as it may seem, the five farm organizations back of this movement to curb expensive and useless legislation give voice to sentiments which, if their origin were not known, might be charged to Wall street. In the literature which they have put out in support of their program, these paragraphs occur:

"We all have to eat. If the grocer's landlord has to pay higher taxes, the grocer has to pay higher rent and we have to pay the grocer higher prices for our food.

"We all have to sleep. If the man who owns the house we rent has to pay higher taxes, then we have to pay higher rent.

"If the railroads have to pay higher taxes they have to charge higher rates for carrying coal, and we have to pay higher prices for our fuel."

In other words, the possession of real and personal property is not necessary to force every individual in America to contribute towards the tax burden. Every man and woman pays, although he of she may not own a foot of ground, or a dollar in the bank or a bond or a certificate of stock. Out of every $8 of national income, $1 goes for taxes, federal, state and local. The league very properly points out that a man with an income of $24 a week is paying $3 weekly in taxes, whether he owns a cents worth of property.

The difficulty of political expression in America's complex industrial organization is strikingly shown in this case. Here in one single great industry are two directly contradictory demands. On the one hand may be found large numbers of those engaged in agriculture who call upon congress to desist from legislation which calls for the creation of new activities of government. Opposing this group are those farmers who are now beseiging congress to enact a mass of legislation designed to relieve the agricultural situation. They have centered their hopes particularly on the McNary-Haugen bill, which admittedly would add a larger number of employes to the public payroll than any other department with the possible exception of the postoffice. Even in the same industry, it would seem there is no community of interest, and no common purpose.

Until America comes to a more sane understanding of what constitutes government, and what may be expected of government, confusion and added tax burdens will increase to the serious injury of industry of all kinds. There must be a more general knowledge of government in order to formulate a common program of action. It must be based upon principles which are inherently sound. Legislation must simplify government, instead of adding to it, as is contemplated in the McNary-Haugen bill.

"I have an uncle, president of a bank in Kentucky in the burley tobacco belt," a prominent Kansas City business man recently wrote. "He pooled his tobacco. He wrote me within the last two weeks saying he has not been paid for his 1922 crop. Wheat is very low because surplus producing countries, who need the money, are selling at the buyers' bid. Poverty stricken Europe is living on half-rations. World's finances were never worse. We must have increased thrift, sound judgment and intelligent farming. We need fewer government leeches and more honest political executives. Increasd governmental control means increased taxes and decreased earnings for the citizens.

"Dr. Ely of the University of Wisconsin shows that the states will soon absorb by taxes all of the income of farm lands. It is a principle of law that to take the income of property is practically the same as to take the property."

Government must be made less expensive, or it will defeat itself by bankrupting those who support it. That is the significance of this new agricultural revolt against those in the same industry, who see a panacea for all ills in more government as a result of legislative action.

A USELESS ENTERPRISE.

Aside from helping the United States navy department to spend the appropriation of several hundred million dollars provided for it by a generous congress, it is very doubtful whether the much-advertised "around-the-world flight" by Major Martin and his fellow aviators will accomplish anything of particular value to the sea arm of our fighting forces. As a big lark for those taking part, the venture is no doubt very thrilling; but its practical benefits are not visible to the country at large.

The airplanes left California some three weeks ago and proceeded by easy stages up the Pacific coast. One of our transcontinental mail flyers could probably have made the flight to Alaska in half the time they did, but of course he wouldn't have been able to do so if he had stopped to attend banquets and be otherwise entertained at points along the route. As that seems to be one of the objects of this trip, the progress has not been especially rapid.

This phase of the undertaking need not be dwelt on, however. Assuming that the naval fliers have done and are doing their best to achieve the performance they set out, the results so far do not appear especially gratifying. For ten days the party has been stalled in Alaska. The only happening of note occurring within that time was an accident which compelled the commander of the expedition to descend in Portage bay and wait for the destroyers to come and rescue him. Leakage of the oil from the crankcase of the flying machine's engine was given as the reason for this mishap.

The period of waiting before starting on the flight over the string of islands extending into the Pacific ocean was necessitated by raw and stormy weather. It is a tribute to the good sense of Major Martin's party that they did not attempt this passage in the face of Arctic winds, snowstorms and temperatures. They may be laid up a week or two longer before the weather opens up sufficiently to justify their going ahead.

It might be remarked, at this juncture, that if aviators could always pick favorable climatic conditions for their flights the risks would be greatly reduced. But our aerial mail carriers across the United States are making their trips every twenty-four hours regardless of weather. They are probably enduring more hardships and certainly performing a great deal more useful service than the navy fliers on their trip around the world.

In the course of time, the Martin expedition may get across to the Asiatic coast without any serious casualty. If they succeed thus far, they should be able to negotiate the route laid out for them across Asia and Europe, during the spring and summer. Of course, they may have some smashups which will end the whole expedition, but if they continue to go as slowly and as carefully as they have done up to this time, the chances are they will be able to keep traveling.

Probably the most hazardous and difficult portion of the whole journey will be when they leave Norway for an over-ocean flight to Iceland, and thence to Greenland and the continent of North America. They will have three long stretches of salt water to cover, and accidents might happen as easily there as anywhere else. But ships of the American navy will be somewhere about to rescue any of the aviators who is compelled to descend, and the flight will be aided by the use of wireless communication.

Suppose that the navy's fliers do succeed in getting back to the United States by next August or September. They will have accomplished a spectacular achievement, it is true, but what else can be said of it? The cost of establishing commercial service over such a route, or any considerable portion of it, would be prohibitive, even if a project of that kind were found practicable. So far as any military or naval advantage to the United States is concerned, the journey might as well not have been taken.

It would be worth infinitely more to the American people if the government would concentrate its aerial experiments on developing communications within the territorial realm of the United States and making them serve the needs of this country, instead of squandering so much money on a project enabling a few individuals to feed their own vanity and see the world at public expense.

Get the Setting.

Everybody has to play the part of sociology. Whether you're trying to act as peacemaker in the organized welfare known as "the great American home" or whether you're charged with hiring and firing a typist, a knowledge of sociology is desirable.

The first thing a trained sociologist does is to "get the setting." In other words, before you can apply a remedy you first must learn what is wrong and why.

Suppose your five year old son tells you a lie. Suppose you spank him for it, without knowing why he lies. You can easily understand what a poor sociologist you would be if the real reason for his lying was fear of you and your spanking.

A young woman of my acquaintance was recently expelled from college. The dean who caused the expulsion was a good detective, but a bad sociologist. A dean of another school, who "got the setting," learned that the girl had been so held down all her life by stern parents that she literally broke loose when going away from home for an education gave her the first opportunity. This second dean tactfully guided and directed the girl; and, incidentally, saved her from being disgraced in the eyes of the very parents whose too-rigid unbringing had caused the whole trouble.

The reason why some bosses are good and some aren't is largely a matter of willingness to "find the setting." The really smart executive makes it his business to learn something of the home conditions of his employees. He knows that the second-assistant bookkeeper's tardiness is due to walking the floor all night with a sick baby; he gets somebody to advise the stenographer to have her tonsils removed, and thereby prevents much absenteeism; he knows that the shipping clerk is fitting himself by night study for a better job; he knows that one of his spurting-type salesmen is going stale and needs a two-day fishing trip.

Ninety-nine out of every hundred people would be more agreeable, more fair, and more successful if they would habitually analyze the human situations with which they have to deal and make a sincere effort to understand the underlying causes.

"Get the setting" is not only good sociology—its good business.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Your questions on health topics will be answered by Dr. Dorothy Bocker if you address her in care of this newspaper.

J. L. M.: My son, age five, has a cavity in one of his back teeth. Is it worth the money to have a "baby tooth" filled?

A. Yes. First, because the child is probably in pain. Second, because poisons are absorbed from decaying teeth. Third, the permanent teeth are just below the gum and are harmed by the drainage from decaying teeth. Fourth, the "baby teeth" set the pattern for the permanent teeth, and I assume you don't want your son's jaw to be disshapen when he grows up. Incidentally, I wonder if your child gets enough milk; a food rich in calcium which contributes much towards producing good sound teeth.

CHAPTER LXX.

That Richard Rankin should accept Winifred's invitation for Sunday was a foregone conclusion. She had taken that for granted.

What she had not taken for granted was the sudden change in the weather. In place of the brilliant skies that had reigned during the first days of October, clouds hung low and threatening.

On her way home from church at noon, Winifred shivered. This afternoon, she would don her heaviest motorcoat—the one that had come home only yesterday. Even so, she would be chilly.

"I ought to have bought a closed car to replace father's limousine that was sold last spring," she reflected. "Then Richard and I could have enjoyed our jaunt. But Donald is so deadly economical with other people's money."

She repeated the statement to Richard by way of apology for the open touring car in which they drove up to Van Cortland Park that afternoon.

"I am afraid you will be too cold," she remarked.

He glanced at her laughingly. "That is a reflection upon my new overcoat!"

"I had noticed that you looked very swell but I attributed it to you, not to the coat," she laughed back. "Now I observe that you have made another necessary purchase,——and I am glad."

"It, like the dress-clothes, was made possible by that same money of which I spoke to you the other day," he said,—"the couple of hundreds I lent a chap months ago. Had he not returned it, I might still be shabby and shivering. However, I made that cash do a lot of service,—though now it is about gone. And my conscience hurts me for spending the money on myself."

"Don't be absurd!" she reproved. "If you had not done that, you would have been uncomfortable in mind and body."

"And would not have the happiness of appearing in public with you," he amended. "My appearance was positively disgraceful. And other woman in your postion would habe been ashamed to have me in her house. By way," changing his tone suddenly "since you have noticed my new coat, may I speak of yours? It is lovely."

"I like it," she admitted, drawing the soft, gray wrap more closely about her and snuggling down into the fur collar. "I need it today. I ought to have a closed car for this weather, instead of this open one."

"You are buying a limousine?" he questioned.

"I was going to get one last month," she replied. "But Mr. Muir advised against it. He wondered if I might not use taxis for a while and see if I really need a closed auto."

She added aloud the opinion she had formed in her mind several hours ago.

"My guardian is very careful about other people's money," she complained.

"Then you will not buy a limousine, perhaps?" was the interrogative comment.

The suggestion conveyed by the words awoke the girl's sumbering indignation toward Muir.

"You mean that I must get his permission to buy one?" she demanded.

"Not exactly that," Rankin demurred. "Only I know Mr. Muir is your advisor—and, I may add, a very wise one. It would be natural that you should do just as he counsels."

"I shall do just as I please!" she exclaimed. "If my guardian and I do not see things in the same light, then I must follow my own judgment — as I have already done," she added.

Her companion leaned closer towards her. "What you say makes me know that my surmise is correct," he remarked.

"What surmise?"

"That Muir would never have consented to your lending me a cent of the money," he said daringly. "You know he would not."

As she did not answer, he hurried on.

"I know, too, as surely as I know anything, that you have had to acknowledge to him that you have helped me in the darkest time of my life. And he has disapproved it it."

"Sh!" she warned, glancing towards the chauffeur. "This is not the time to discuss confidential matters."

"No," he admitted, "it is not. But—you must let me talk about this later."

She ignored his serious tone, and answered with a smile. "All right! Provided you do not start an argument until after dinner tonight."

He changed his manner to suit hers. "Very well. But then I shall say what I please. So be prepared."

PEACHES AND PERSIMMONS

The first broadcasting set, you will remember, was made of a rib.

It isn't the first tee the beginner dreads so much as the first tee-hee.

The honeymoon is over when she asks him if he loves her and he answers "Uh-huh."

It isn't a perfect civilization that produces $500 dinner parties and $50 funerals.

Out in the rural districts, however, there are many fine hosts who can't mix a cocktail.

It isn't so difficult to love your enemy when you hear him rooting for your home team.

Poise is the quality that enables a woman to sit in a late wife's limousine and look as though she dared the neighbors to make remarks.

It is getting to where the police no longer look for the woman but for the hypodermic needle.

The trouble in Washington seems to be an excess of hard feeling and a shortage of hard facts.

Convictions are the things a candidate has after he discovers how the voters feel on the subject.

A hick town is a place where nobody is too sorry to get credit at some grocery store.

He is getting old when he thinks everybody needs reforming and yet feels no urge to handle the job.

Keep trying. Even if you miss the hall of fame, you may be invited to address the commercial club.

Riches are not everything. Only the rich man can have a valet, but any poor man may get a wife.

It takes an income of six figures to get a man in the rotogravure section, but one figure will get a girl there.

If you don't belong to Klan, Legion or bloc, you are the one he means when he appeals to the "common people."

There are good and bad people, but there are very few who don't know what it means to shoot four bits.

Correct this sentence: "I was crazy to see that picture," said she, "but I had bill's socks to darn and couldn't go."

Slips On Steps In Theatre; Asks $2,600 Damages

The steps were not lighted and there was no usher to conduct patrons to their seats, the petition says, in its claim that the company was negligent.

Has Ordinance to Regulate Cutting of City Curbing

Declaring that indiscriminate cutting of curbs must stop and that the city will take supervision and control of the cutting, Commissioner A. P. Cowgill Saturday announced that he has had drafted an ordinance which places the entire problem in the hands of the city engineer, and lays down rules governing the manner in which curbs can be cut.

A ordinance similar to the one which the commissioner has was turned down by the council a few weeks ago because of several clauses which were considered too drastic. It was said Saturday, however, that the new regulations meet with the approval of the commissioners and that it will be passed. It will be presented Monday.

The ordinance provides that cutting of curbs can only be done by the city engineer and then only upon application of the property owner. It provides further that it will be unlawful for any person to push, drive or back any vehicle or tractor over the curbing, or to build a bridge of any material for the purpose of moving any vehicle over the curb. The street department's "puddle jumper" is given exemption by a special paragraph.

Provision is made for the bridging of gutters and the moving of vehicles across the curb, when application is made to the city engineer's office.

Stiff penalties are provided for violation of any of the provisions of the ordinance.

URGE ACTION ON MUSCLE SHOALS

Propose That Definite Plan Be Formulated Before Bids are Considered.

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 19. — Suggestions were made the senate committee's Muscle Shoals hearing yesterday that all of the pending bids be set aside, a definite plan adopted with respect to the property and then call for bids and execute it.

Senator Ralston, democrat, Indiana, advanced the proposal and Chairman Norris said he saw no objection to the idea and added that he understood it confirmed with the Muscle Shoals policy of President Coolidge as set forth in his message to congress.

"As it stands now," Senator Ralston said, "the government has no plan for disposal of Muscle Shoals and before bids are considered a policy will be adopted.

One of the witnesses at Friday's hearings attacked the bid of Henry Ford. R. D. Bowen, national lecturer for the nonpartisan league, said if Ford obtained Muscle Shoals, the committee will be selling the nation's birthright. O. F. Graff, president of the American Nitrogen Product company, Seattle, Wash., said he opposed the Ford bid and all of the other bids because of the basis of their terms no private enterprise could face the competition; and Hugh McRae of Wilmington, N. AFTER AN OPERATION

Mrs. Wilke Couldn't Get Back Her Strength Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rochester, Minn.—"I had a very serious operation and it seemed as if I could not get my health back after it. I suffered with pain almost constantly. My sister came to help take care of me, and she was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nervousness and a run-down condition. She had me try some of it, and in a very few days' time I began to feel better. In two weeks I hardly knew myself and after taking a couple of bottles more I was up and helping around, and now I am strong and healthy again and am still taking it. It is a pleasure for me to write this to you, and I hope that many other women who are suffering like I was will find out about your medicine. I will give any information I possibly can." — Mrs. JAMES WILKE, 933 E. Center Street, Rochester, Minnesota.

Remember, the Vegetable Compound has a record of fifty years of success among American women.

URGE ACTION ON MUSCLE SHOALS

Propose That Definite Plan Be Formulated Before Bids are Considered.

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 19. — Suggestions were made the senate committee's Muscle Shoals hearing yesterday that all of the pending bids be set aside, a definite plan adopted with respect to the property and then call for bids and execute it.

"As it stands now," Senator Ralston said, "the government has no plan for disposal of Muscle Shoals and before bids are considered a policy will be adopted.

OMAHA, Neb., April 19.
CATTLE—Receipts, 100. WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Dun's today says:
"It is possible to see signs of gain in current business yet they do not mark any fundamental change in the situation. Retail trade has felt the stimulus of the eastern demands, but increased activity in that quarter is natural at this season and was expected in the present instance. Purchases by consumers in many cases are being made with a close regard for prices though the public buying power remains large and freight traffic shows a continued heavy run of general merchandise. Against these favorable indications and the more hopeful foreign outlook there are evidences of domestic industrial reaction which have become more noticeable in recent weeks. A slowing down has occurred in most leading [illegible] of manufacture. Generally political phases account for much of the existing hesitation, with the delay in the enactment of federal tax reduction legislation adding to the uncertainties of a presidential year.

MRS. ROHRER TO GO TO CAPITAL

Former Mrs. "Jake" Hamon to Appear Before Investigating Committee.

(Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, April 19.—Mrs. Georgie Hamon Rohrer, wife of the late "Jake" Hamon, Oklahoma oil man, appeared at the federal building yesterday to make arrangements for going to Washington where she will appear before a senate investigating committee before which charges were made that her former husband attempted to manipulate the republican national convention of 1920. Mrs. Rohrer said she will go to Ardmore, Oklahoma, today to secure records and will then proceed to Washington.

"Jake Hamon, jr., has all the necessary records to show that the charge that my former husband wanted to be secretary of the interior is not true," she said.

Mrs. Rohrer criticized testimony of Al Jennings, former bandit, declaring his stories about her husband's activities were inspired by animosity aroused in an argument over a motion picture deal.

Distance Runners Compete Today In Boston Marathon

BOSTON, April 19.—A field of 147 long distance runners, hailing from as far north as Nova Scotia and as far west as the Golden Gate, assembled here today for the twenty-eight annual American Marathon of the Boston Athletic club to be run over the 26 miles 385 yards course from Hopinkson to Boston.

Designated as the final Olympic tryout, the race this year is to decide the team of six Americans who will represent the United States in the Olympic Marathon in Paris next July.

Weather conditions, although not ideal, for a cool rain fell during the night and morning hours, are expected to result in a clearer course over the congested highways than perfect weather would have brought.

The field, the largest since 1910, is considered possibly the strongest ever entered for the event. The race is scheduled to start at noon.

DENBY ASSUMES RESPONSIBILITY FOR OIL LEASES

Former Secretary of Navy Declares Action Taken Only For Good of Navy.

Points Out Similar Leasing of Reserve Wells by Demo Administration.

(Associated Press)
ADRIAN, Mich., April 19.—Full responsibility for the initiation of the policy which resulted in the leasing of the naval oil reserve was assumed here last night by Edwin Denby around whom raged a storm of criticism in the senate before his retirement last month as secretary of the navy.

"Had I not taken the action I did to protect the interests of the navy in these reserves against the tremendous loss by drainage," he declared in an address, "I would have been false to my trust and culpably negligent in the performance of my duty."

Replying to what he said had been a hint of collusion on this part in the granting of the oil leases, he said he had never been talked to about the naval petroleum reserve situation before he entered the cabinet by the president-elect or by any of his cabinet or other advisers.

"My appointment was somewhat unexpected," he said, "and was not announced until about February 25. Therefore, there was no collusion as to any acts to be performed by me—although even that insinuation has been made.

Told of Drainage.

"Shortly after taking office, it was reported to me that drainage of the reserves was proceeding rapidly and offset wells were necessary. Believing that the department of the interior was best qualified to handle for the navy its enormously valuable reserves, I turned to the interior department for advice on the subject. I then asked the secretary of the interior if he could not take over the administrative control of the naval petroleum reserves. Secretary Fall did not ask me. I asked him. I wanted to stop the squandering of an invaluable resource. Together then, the secretary of the interior and I, presented the matter to the president of the United States and after he had given it careful study, he decided to issue an executive order.

"Therafter a searching investigation was made by the department of the interior into the whole problem and in the meantime certain off-set wells were drilled by the department of interior with the knowledge and approval of the secretary of the navy, although he did not sign these individual contracts.

Robison Given Charge.

"Later, on—October 19, 1921—after discussion of the subject with the counsel of the secretary of the navy, I gave Rear Admiral J. K. Robison, engineer-in-chief of the navy, charge of the oil reserves under the naval establishment."

Here Mr. Denby reiterated at length and in detail his denial of the charge that he had caused to be transferred from Washington or to be retired certain officers of the navy who opposed the leasing policy.

"Please bear in mind that in naval reserve No. 2. California, prior to March 4, 1921, the democratic administration, with the approval of Secretary Daniels, had leased fifty-eight producing well in various parts of the reserve. More than this, with the written approval of Secretary Daniels, dated August 21, 1920, and subsequently approved by Secretary Payne and President Wilson, the Boston-Pacific Oil company was permitted to put down five new wells on reserve No. 2, at a royalty of 25 per cent.

ADVOCATES FIXED SHIPPING POLICY

Merchant Marine Traffic Manager Says Definite Methods Help Trade.

(Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 19.—A continuing policy governing shipping operations similar to that which has made the British successful in world trade, ought to be adopted by the United States to eliminate the uncertainty existing in the foreign mind as to this country's merchant marine, G. B. Moore, traffic manager of the shipping board in Europe, declared Friday at the house shipping inquiry.

Representative Lineberger, republican, California, a member of the investigating committee suggested that the British were successful because of their continuity of policy and asked if this country should not adopt a similar definite position with regard to its trade routes.

"The British stick pretty well together," Mr. Moore asserted and added, "and I believe a similar policy essential to our trade."

Another improvement in the building up of domestic commerce, said Mr. Moore, might be brought about by direct solicitation by the fleet corporation representatives abroad for west bound cargoes instead of depending upon shipping board operations agents for such business as the present practice. Consolidation of trade routes, now being carried out by the board and fleet corporation "will be more helpful than anything else," he added.

Hold Child Health Conference at Macy For Indian Mothers

Last Thursday's child health conference held at Macy, in Thurston county, for mothers of the Omaha Indian tribe brought out the biggest crowd of people ever gathered at that place, except for tribal feasts and ceremonials, according to Mrs. C. H. England, state child hygiene director, who assisted Mrs. Addie Boucher, field nurse, in conducting the conference.

There were fort mothers present with sixty children under 7 years of age, and in many cases the whole family, including the husband and father, came along. Some families drove in farm wagons twelve or fifteen miles to get to Macy. The town seemed to regard the affair as one of very great importance and interest.

An interpreter assisted Mrs. England and Mrs. Boucher in instructing the Indian women how to care for their young children. One of the things emphasized was the use of soap and brush in bathing the youngsters. This is a new process to a good many of the mothers.

Another conference at the same place will be held Memorial day, and the field nurse will try to get a new group in at that time. Later on, during the summer, similar work will be started among the Winnebago Indians at Winnebago and Walthill.

MARKET QUOTATIONS

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

OMAHA, Neb., April 19.

CATTLE—Receipts, 100. The spread of fat cattle prices widened out somewhat this week, good grades of beef and butcher cattle advancing 10 to 25c, while yearlings and plain to medium classes of cows and steers were slow and weak to 25c lower. Weighty cattle are scarce and in demand. Best heavy steers reaching $11.70 this week, and heavy cows selling as high as $8.50. Good stockers and feeders were steady, but light, thin and plain classes were dull and weak to 25c lower. The week's receipts were large, 34,000. Today's market was nominally steady.

HOGS—Receipts, 8,500. A good tone again dominated local trade. Another light supply was at hand and firm to slightly higher quotations at other points tended to strengthen prices and movement to shippers was under way early at levels fully steady with Friday. The packer market was also active, mostly steady figures. Bulk of saels was at $7.00@7.20, with top for the day $7.20. While a slight touch of easiness prevailed early in the week, values strengthened on the close, being around 10 to 15c higher than last Saturday.

Bulk 210 to 300 pound weights $7.10@7.20; latter top; packing sows mostly $6.50@6.65.

66	246	...	7.15	65	318	...	7.20

SHEEP—Receipts, 250. The few lambs at hand were billed direct, and the market nominally steady. A little weakness was apparent in the killer lamb trade during the greater part of the week, and prices on the close are a big 25c lower than last Saturday's levels. Shearers also slumped and are fully 50c off for the week. Fat wooled ewes showed a decline of 25c, with shorn off 50c.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Dun's today says:

"It is possible to see signs of gain in current business yet they do not mark any fundamenta lchange in the situation. Retail trade has felt the stimulus of the eastern demands, but increased activity in that quarter is natural at this season and was expected in the present instance. Purchases by consumers in many cases are being made with a close regard for prices though the public buying power remains large and freight traffic shows a continued heavy run of general merchandise. Against these favorable indications and the more hopeful foreign outlook there are evidences of domestic industrial reaction which have become more noticeable in recent weeks. A slowing down has occurred in most leading branches of manufacture. Generally political phases account for much of the existing hesitation, with the delay in the enactment of federal tax reduction legislation adding to the uncertainties of a presidential year."

Weekly bank clearings, $7,714,581,000.

MRS. ROHRER TO GO TO CAPITAL

Former Mrs. "Jake" Hamon to Appear Before Investigating Committee.

(Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, April 19.—Mrs Georgie Hamon Rohrer, wife of the late "Jake" Hamon, Oklahoma oil man, appeared at the federal building yesterday to make arrangements for going to Washington where she will appear before a senate investigating committee before which charges were made that her former husband attempted to manipulate the republican national convention of 1920. Mrs. Rohrer said she will go to Ardmore, Oklahoma, today to secure records and will then proceed to Washington.

"Jake Hamon, jr., has all the necessary records to show that the charge that my former husband wanted to be secretary of the interior is not true," she said.

Mrs. Rohrer criticized testimony of Al Jennings, former bandit, declaring his stories about her husband's actvities were inspired by animosity aroused in an argument over a motion picture deal.

Distance Runners Compete Today In Boston Marathon

BOSTON, April 19.—A field of 147 long distance runners, hailing from as far north as Nova Scotia and as far west as the Golden Gate, assembled here today for the twenty-eight annual American Marathon of the Boston Athletic club to be run over the 26 miles 385 yards course from Hopinkson to Boston.

Designated as the final Olympic tryout, the race this year is to decide the team of six Americans who will represent the United States in the Olympic Marathon in Paris next July.

Weather conditions, although not ideal, for a cool rain fell during the night and morning hours, are expected to result in a clearer course over the congested highways than perfect weather would have brought.

The field, the largest since 1910, is considered possibly the strongest ever entered for the event. The race is scheduled to start at noon.

DENBY ASSUMES RESPONSIBILITY FOR OIL LEASES

Former Secretary of Navy Declares Action Taken Only For Good of Navy.

Points Out Similar Leasing of Reserve Wells by Demo Administration.

(Associated Press)

ADRIAN, Mich., April 19.—Full responsibility for the initiation of the policy which resulted in the leasing of the naval oil reserve was assumed here last night by Edwin Denby around whom raged a storm of criticism in the senate before his retirement last month as secretary of the navy.

"Had I not taken the action I did to protect the interests of the navy in these reserves against the tremendous loss by drainage," he declared in an address, "I would have been false to my trust and culpably negligent in the performance of my duty."

Replying to what he said had been a hint of collusion on this part in the granting of the oil leases, he said he had never been talked to about the naval petroleum reserve situation before he entered the cabinet by the president-elect or by any of his cabinet or other advisers.

"My appointment was somewhat unexpected," he said, "and was not announced until about February 25. Therefore, there was no collusion as to any acts to be performed by me—although even that insinuation has been made.

Told of Drainage.

"Shortly after taking office, it was reported to me that drainage of the reserves was proceeding rapidly and offset wells were necessary. Believing that the department of the interior was best qualified to handle for the navy its enormously valuable reserves, I turned to the interior department for advice on the subject. I then asked the secretary of the interior if he could not take over the administrative control of the naval petroleum reserves. Secretary Fall did not ask me. I asked him. I wanted to stop the squandering of an invaluable resource. Together then, the secretary of the interior and I, presented the matter to the president of the United States and after he had given it careful study, he decided to issue an executive order.

"Therafter a searching investigation was made by the department of the interior into the whole problem and in the meantime certain off-set wells were drilled by the department of interior with the knowledge and approval of the secretary of the navy, although he did not sign these individual contracts.

Robison Given Charge.

"Later, on—October 19, 1921—after discussion of the subject with the counsel of the secretary of the navy, I gave Rear Admiral J. K. Robison, engineer-in-chief of the navy, charge of the oil reserves under the naval establishment."

Here Mr. Denby reiterated at length and in detail his denial of the charge that he had caused to be transferred from Washington or to be retired certain officers of the navy who opposed the leasing policy.

"Please bear in mind that in naval reserve No. 2, California, prior to March 4, 1921, the democratic administration, with the approval of Secretary Daniels, had leased fifty-eight producing well in various parts of the reserve. More than this, with the written approval of Secretary Daniels, dated August 21, 1920, and subsequently approved by Secretary Payne and President Wilson, the Boston-Pacific Oil company was permitted to put down five new wells on reserve No. 2, at a royalty of 25 per cent.

ADVOCATES FIXED SHIPPING POLICY

Merchant Marine Traffic Manager Says Definite Methods Help Trade.

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 9.—A continuing policy governing shipping operations similar to that which has made the British successful in world trade, ought to be adopted by the United States to eliminate the uncertainty existing in the foreign mind as to this country's merchant marine, G. B. Moore, traffic manager of the shipping board in Europe, declared Friday at the house shipping inquiry.

Representative Lineberger, republican, California, a member of the investigating committee suggested that the British were successful because of their continuity of policy and asked if this country should not adopt a similar definite position with regard to its trade routes.

"The British stick pretty well together," Mr. Moore asserted and added, "and I believe a similar policy essential to our trade."

Another improvement in the building up of domestic commerce, said Mr. Moore, might be brought about by direct solicitation by the fleet corporation representatives abroad for west bound cargoes instead of depending upon shipping board operations agents for such business as the present practice. Consolidation of trade routes, now being carried out by the board and fleet corporation "will be more helpful than anything else," he added.

Hold Child Health Conference at Macy For Indian Mothers

Last Thursday's child health conference held at Macy, in Thurston county, for mothers of the Omaha Indian tribe brought out the biggest crowd of people ever gathered at that place, except for tribal feasts and ceremonials, according to Mrs. C. H. England, state child hygiene director, who assisted Mrs. Addie Boucher, field nurse, in conducting the conference.

There were fort mothers present with sixty children under 7 years of age, and in many cases the whole family, including the husband and father, came along. Some families drove in farm wagons twelve or fifteen miles to get to Macy. The town seemed to regard the affair as one of very great importance and interest.

An interpreter assisted Mrs. England and Mrs. Boucher in instructing the Indian women how to care for their young children. One of the things emphasized was the use of soap and brush in bathing the youngsters. This is a new process to a good many of the mothers.

Another conference at the same place will be held Memorial day, and the field nurse will try to get a new group in at that time. Later on, during the summer, similar work will be started among the Winnebago Indians at Winnebago and Walthill.

LIFE AND CHARACTER READING.

These people should practice silence and spend some time each day alone. Any process that will restrain the action of the tongue and the determination to govern everybody and everything will be found wholesome and legitimate.

The sign governing this date is Aries, the sign of the Ram, and the last sign of the Fire Triplicity. The governing planet is Mars, the birthstone a diamond.

The natural impetuosity of these people often leads them into serious blunders, and these complications are entirely unnecessary.

Stokes Hurls Steady Game, But Lincoln Loses Third of Series

(Special to The Star.)

WICHITA, Kan., April 19.— The Links gave the Izzies a fine fight yesterday, but the Wakefield crew finished on the losing end of a tight combat in which the count was 6 to 5 in Wichita's favor.

Art Stokes, on the slab for the Links, pitched in superb form, keeping the Isbell team's hits scattered and issuing only two walks. His support faltered in the third frame, when a brace of fielding bobbles helped the Izzies to a three-run lead, but thence to the finish Stokes hurled effectively, while his teammates came strong in the final innings and all but batted victory out of the fire.

After two clean hits, a fluke blow and errors by Moore and Young had helped the Izzies to three markers in the third, the Links got to Hovlik in the fourth, counting two runs on two free passes, an error by Beck and sacrifices by Milan and Kinsella. The Izzies scored two more in the fifth and again in the sixth, after which Stokes clamped on the brakes.

Synder Mauls Homer.

The Links got after Hovlik in the seventh, when Synder clouted the ball out of the lot for a homer and Kinsella tripled to the scoreboard in deep center field. The runner was left stranded on third when McDonald fanned and Conkey popped an infield fly.

A Lincoln rally in the ninth lacked but little of sending Hovlik to the showers. Hamilton was retired, but Milan hit for a single and Snyder profited from a pass on balls. Kinsella hoisted an infield fly, but McDonald came through with a clean double, scoring both runners. Conkey grounded out and Hovlik pulled out of the hole.

The Wakefield team pulled away Friday night to open a three-game series at St. Joseph today. The score:

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 19.—Defense of the Hollanders broke down in the eighth and ninth, permitting the Boosters to even the score, and the Des Moines club crashed through with three runs in the eleventh, defeating Oklahoma City, 9 to 6, in the odd game of the series. Fans 15 Batters In Five Innings

Elks In Charge When Links At Home April 29

Lincoln's B. P. O. E. lodge will be in charge of the local Western league baseball inaugural Tuesday, April 29. At Friday night's regular meeting of the Elks, request was made by members of the local boosters' association that No. 80 get behind the opening day project and a motion to that effect was adopted by unanimous vote.

Exalted Ruler Arthur Kurz was authorized to appoint a special committee to take charge of the arrangements, which probably will include a parade of Elks, headed by the Elks band, through the business section to Landis Field.

Another motion adopted by the Elks requests Mayor Zehrung to designate a half-holiday the afternoon of April 29 in order that Lincoln fans may respond generally to the urgent request of the boosters in making the opening day attendance worthy of Lincoln's prestige in commercial and baseball circles.

Exalted Ruler Kurz is expected to take early action in naming the committee to take formal direction of the baseball inaugural.

Odds and Ends In Baseball

Former Nebraska State league pitchers performed creditably in Friday's games in the Western loop. Art Stokes traveled the full nine-inning route for the Links at Wichita, drawing the short end of a 6 to 5 score chiefly by reason of faulty support in one inning, when the Izzies clustered three runs. Stokes kept getting better as the battle advanced and was pitching in brilliant form during the closing innings. Koupal, Hastings right-hander last season in the Nebraska circuit, notched his record with a four-hit performance and a victory in tolling for Omaha at St. Joseph.

A. R. Tearney of Chicago, Western league president, is making the rounds of the southern half of the circuit. He witnessed the opening day game at Oklahoma City. The league prexy has accepted Howard Wakefield's invitation to occupy a box seat at the Lincoln-St. Joseph opening day game April 29 at Landis Field.

Six hundred prominent business men and fans of Oklahoma City subscribed $60,000 to a stock company which constructed a new ball park in the capital city of the Sooner state. Jack Holland, owner of the Oklahoma City club, will spend an additional $20,000 in paving on three sides of the park providing hard surface parking space for cars. The new plant was dedicated at Wednesday's opening day game.

George W. Segrist, who will guide the destinies of Sioux City's Tri-State league aggregation, again has a working arrangement with the St. Louis National league team whereby he will acquire surplus players from Frank Rickey's Cardinals. Donald Hurst, St. Louis pitcher, has been released to the Segrist clan on an optional deal and Catcher Bool, former Lincoln State leaguer, is with the Sioux under the same arrangement. In reality, Bool still belongs to the Rickey team.

St. Joseph News-Press: "Frisco" Thompson, hard hitting second baseman of the Omaha Buffaloes, made two beauty stabs of hot grounders yesterday and tossed out two at first. The first one came in the second inning, when he robbed Gilbert of a base hit. The second was in the fourth and he retired the Saints with a neat scoop.

Oklahoma City Oklahoman: Thirteen fly balls were hit to rightfield, eleven of which might have been fielded had it not been for the brilliant sun which burned directly into the eyes of the gardeners tending that territory. Of these thirteen, only one was caught, that by Rosenberry off Spencer in the fifth inning. Felber got one squarely in his hands which he dropped for an error in the ninth. Five went for doubles and four for triples, accounting for a majority of the runs made by both teams.

St. Joseph News-Press: Frankie McCune, a hard-hitting infielder, has been purchased by the St. Joseph Western league club from has the reputation of being a hard hitter, and was with Columbia, S. C., in the South Atlantic league last season He hit a little under .300 in that league and was second in the circuit in home runs with nineteen. He was also second in triples last season. He will report here some time this week and will get in a Saint uniform immediately.

ILLINOIS TRACK MEN MEET BEARS

Gill's Athletes From Urbana And Californians Clash On Berkeley Oval.

BERKELEY, Cal., April 19.—After a three days' rest, following their long train ride, University of Illinois track athletes were pronounced fit by Coach Harry Gill for their clash here this afternoon against the University of California, eastern intercollegiate champions for the last three years.

The invaders are conceded to have a slight edge. Dean Brownell, world's indoor record holder in the pole vault event, and Milton Angier, champion American collegiate javelin performer, are considered certain winners.

Evans of Illinois and Barber of California are expected to furnish close competition in the 100-yard dash.

Flint, crack Illinois high jumper, and Ayres, invading sprinter, were reported suffering from colds and may not compete today.

Kansas Relays Under Way.

LAWRENCE, Kas., April 19.—The second annual Kansas relays, the middle west's first outdoor track classic of the year, will get under way here this afternoon with more than a thousand athletes representing ninety-five universities, military academies and high schools in all parts of the country entered in 36 scheduled events.

The meet brings together many candidates for places on America's Olympic teams.

John Levi, Haskell institute, conceded to be the greatest Indian athlete since Thorpe, is the outstanding star entered. He will compete in the discus against Platt, Denver university; Paul Jones, Depauw, winner of the Illinois all-around championship, and Gross, holder of the Minnesota record.

Aim at Javelin Record.

In the javelin, Lingelfelter of Drake, Missouri Valley conference champion; Schjoll, Minnesota; Greland, Kansas, and Obert, Notre Dame, will attempt to better Angier's mark of 193 feet 5 inches, made in the Kansas relays last year.

Tom Poor of Kansas, Missouri Valley high jump champion, will compete against Turner of Nebraska, Hagerman of Washington, Campbell of Minnesota, Levi of Haskell, and Jones of Depauw.

Towler and Martineau, Minnesota; Crawford and Brookins, Iowa; Weir, Nebraska; Blanchard, Washington, and Kipp, Haskell, are the gavorites in the hurdles.

Darthmouth, Iowa, Kansas Occidental, Nebraska and Wisconsin are the favorites in the mile relay in the university class. In the four-mile relay Wisconsin and Oregon Aggies are considered the strongest entrants. In the two-mile relay, Northwestern, Ames, and Nebraska are favorites. The medley relay of 1 7-8 miles finds Texas, winner of last year, Notre Dame and Ames all looming strong.

Ex-State Leaguer Sets Down Saints

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 19. — Koupal, former Nebraska State leaguer, held the Saints to four hits yesterday, Omaha winning the odd game of the series, 11 to 5. St. Joseph used three pitchers in a vain effort to stop Omaha's hitters. The score.

Color Bars Georgia's Tiger Fighter From World Title

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

(Copyright 1924 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Two weeks or so ago Tiger Flowers, the negro middleweight from Atlanta, journeyed to New York and began throwing about 1,000,000 gloves at Lee Anderson, the 185-pound dark skinned battler who is one of the heaviest punchers in the ring.

It was Flowers' first appearance in the big town and a packed house sat in for the festivities—including a big group of negroes who caled Georgia their home state and, naturally, were rooting for Flowers.

In and out danced Flowers, whipping left and right to Anderson's body, crossing over with an occasional right to the jaw, jabbing, stabbing, ripping—and varying the ceremony once in a while with a wicked uppercut.

A Whole Menagerie.

In one of the mixups precipitated by Flowers, during which the Tiger hit Anderson about ten times without a return, one of the Georgia group howled delightedly:

"At boy ain't jest no Tigah—he's a WHOLE MANAGERIE."

Which is more or less true.

For quite a long time New York has been hearing about this negro who fights nothing but heavyweights these days because he either has whipped or frightened away all the middles and the light-heavyweights. It has heard him described as "the fastest thing afoot and the most colorful picturesque performer in harness." It believes it now.

Has Dazzling Speed.

No middleweight fighter ever showed more dazzling swiftness of hands and legs than did Flowers. And none has displayed more cleverness on defense or a greater willingness to mix it. Flowers is action—action—action—through every moment the fight endures and neither rests nor permits the other man to rest.

He has a ring trick exclusively his own. The use of it undoubtedly explains why he has been able to fight and whip such men as Jim Flynn, Jamaica Kid, Tut Jackson, Panama Joe Gans and others who have outweighed him anywhere from 10 to 75 pounds. It's a cricling shift.

Clever Fighting Style.

Flowers races in, stabs with his right, shoots over a left cross or an uppercut—and then, instead of backing away, circles toward his foeman's left. The other man, in attempting to return the blows, must wheel around to get in range.

And, as he does, Flowers stops quickly, sets himself and then being in position to hit, does so—and circles once more out of range. And so it goes. He always is a shifting, whirling target and rarely in position to be reached by anything other than a "roundhouse right hand."

Color Line Shuts Him Out.

If Flowers were white, and no one could draw the color line on him, he would be a world's champion among the middleweights—perhaps the boss of the light-heavies—depending, of course, on his luck at getting a swipe at the title-holder. For he is a terrific hitter—when he wants to hit—as his record of 21 kayo victories in 55 starts seems to prove.

But Flowers is a negro. Even if, through the south he is called "the whitest negro in America" because of his clean habits, his exemplary home life and his honorable conduct in the ring, being ebony hued shuts him out of a chance at a title and forces him to do the major portion of his fighting against negroes.

Best of the Middles.

After Flowers had hit Anderson about 2,000 punches, knocked down Anderson and outpointed him by a mile in every one of the twelve rounds, one of the biggest promoters said:

There is a million dollar fighter who must fight for comparatively small money all his life because he was born a negro. He's the greatest middleweight in the game—bar none. He would be fighting for $50,000 to $200,000 gates if he were white; he must battle for $10,000 and $15,000 houses against other negroes or against dubs among the white fighters."

Flowers is the best drawing card the south has produced in many years. Whenever he battles, he packs the building because his hurricane style of warfare pleases the audience and stirs it to fever frenzy. He is an idol in Juarez, Mexico, where he fought more than a dozen times.

Hard to Get Matches.

"My main trouble with Flowers," declared Walker Miller, who manages him, "is to get matches for him. Nobody wants to fight him. The Jamaica Kid and Panama Joe Gans having tried him out a few times, want no more of him. You couldn't drag either into a ring with the Tiger, although each outweighs him about 10 pounds.

"As a result, I must, to keep him busy, send this 158-pound boy against men like Anderson, 185 pounds; Tut Jackson, 190; Jim Flynn, 215; Kid Norfolk, 180, and others of the same kind.

Everybody Sidesteps.

"I wanted to get a match for the Tiger with Paul Berlenbach, but Berlenbach didn't want him. I've tried to match him with Ad Stone, Ted Jamieson, Young Slatterly, Jack Delaney and a gang of the other light-heavies. But they sidestep. I have made offers to both Harry Greb and Mike McTigue, which are rather unique. Neither has been accepted. Both still stand. They are:

"'If you will meet Flowers in a no-decision bout, you can have his share of the purse. If you will meet him in a decision bout you can have his share of the purse and a $5,000 bonus from me.'

"Ive made those offers because I know that Flowers can knock out either man—and can come mighty close to naming the round. If Greb or McTigue don't think so all they need to do to convince themselves is to give Flowers a chance."

Fan Suggests Opening Day Be Made a Holiday

A booster for Western league ball in Lincoln comes to bat with a suggestion that a general holiday be declared in the capital city the afternoon of Tuesday, April 29—date of the opening day game in this city. The following letter to The Star urges that Lincoln "close up shop" April 29:

"Sports Editor Star: Now that Lincoln has again taken her place in the Western league, what will the people of Lincoln do to show their appreciation of the efforts put forth by those public spirited citizens who, by purchasing Landis Field, made this possible?

"I know of no better way to show our appreciation than by attending the games. While it is impossible for each of us to attend every game, yet I know of one and I believe there are many others who would like to attend the opening game, but may be denied this privilege unless a holiday is declared and business suspended for the afternoon. This could be done, and at the end of the year we would not miss the time so spent.

"I believe we should 'close up shop' so that everybody may go to the opening game, thus to show the owners of the park, the players on the team, the club owners and the whole Western league circle that we are for the league and the game.

Chance Ordered Return to Coast

CHICAGO, April 19. — Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago White Sox, today was ordered by his physicians to return to California to recuperate from illness which prevented him from assuming charge of the club this season.

Chance plans to leave the hospital at once to arrange for his return to California.

Johnny Evers, who has been first assistant to Chance, probably will be appointed manager of the club pending the return of the "peerless leader." Evers has been in charge of the team since the time it started spring training.

Layton-Sherrick Left at Home By Nebraska Squad

A party of University of Nebraska tracksters headed for Lawrence, Kan., late Friday night to participate in the annual Kansas university relay carnival.

Coach Henry F. Schulte, Nebraska track mentor, took seventeen of his athletes on the trip, the squad having been crippled by ineligibility and illness.

"Red" Layton, crack varsity quarter-miler, and Scherrick, state college record-holder, were forced to stay behind because of failure to clear scholastic barriers, while Whipperman, another member of the Cornhusker mile-relay team with which Schulte had hoped to lower the Lawrence record, remained at home because of an infected jaw caused by an abscessed tooth.

The loss of the trio of speedsters also crippled the sprint team and Schulte was unable to announce Friday night the personnel of the short distance relays. He indicated, however, that Beerkle and Crites would probably be called upon to fill the gap. Locke and Hein are fixtures on the sprint teams.

Men making the Kansas trip were: Captain "Mud" Gardner, Fremont; Ed Weir, Superior; Roland Locke, North Platte; William Hein, Wilbur; Dean Higgins, Stella; Ted Slemmons, Omaha; Orris Hatch, Coin, Ia.; Henry Bassett, Falls City; Ced Hartman, Lincoln; Hobart Davis, Lincoln; Jack Ross, Gibbon; James Lewis, Havelock; Everett Crites, Central City; John Rhodes, Ansley; Douglas Myers, Beatrice; Wilmer Beerkle, Omaha; Hobb Turner, Omaha.

NEW YORK—Friends of the late Bill Donovan will gather at New Haven tomorrow to attend the Donovan memorial exercises. An exhibition game between New Haven and the Philadelphia Athletics will be played to raise a memorial fund. Judge Landis plans to attend.

Touching The Bases.

After giving a very natty exhibition for eight innings, Ray Kremer, Coast league recruit of the Pirates, staked the Red to a two-run rally and lost, 3 to 2.

The Indians welcomed Cole with a shower of base hits in the third for enough runs to beat the Tigers, 5 to 3, in the finale of the series. Passes and errors accounted for all the Tigers' runs off Edwards.

Just to prove that time cannot wither nor custom stale, Eddie Collins drove out three hits, one a homer, scored two runs, and handled nine chances without a miscue and altogether made himself conspicuous in the 5 to 1 victory of the White Sox over the Browns.

Home runs by Grimes and Miller in the second started the Cubs on a rampage that ended in a 6 to 3 decision over the Cardinals. Hornsby also wafted one beyond the park limits, but in vain.

Scenes shift in baseball's "big show" today. Home teams remain undisturbed as road outfits exchange locations. In the American league, the Yankees, somewhat bedraggled, but still champions of the world, leave Boston for Washington. Connie Mack's young athletes taste the surprising Red Sox in morning and afternoon Patriots' day games. Cleveland enters Chicago and St. Louis invades Detroit.

Chicago and Cincinnati will fight it out at Redland field in the National league as Pittsburgh meets St. Louis. Brooklyn leaves New York for Philadelphia and Dave Bancroft takes his league leading Boston team to the Polo grounds for a series with his former teammates.

All big leagues games in the east were cancelled yesterday by rain and cold weather.

In the west, both Chicago teams made it three out of four in the inter-city series with St. Louis. The Sox now lead the American league, but Boston, with one victory and no defeats, tops the Cubs in the National.

How It's Done In the Majors By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Giants

The bases are filled and one man is out. Batter hits ball through pitcher's legs to second baseman. There is a fast runner on third base.

Where should second baseman make the play?

In a case of this kind the second baseman should try for a double play in order to retire the side at bat. His best plan is to toss the ball to the shortstop, who covers second on the play, and have him complete the double to first.

As the man on third is a fast runner the chances are the second baseman wouldn't be able to nail him at the plate. In the first place he'd have to straighten to make this throw, and that consumes time—time he saves in tossing the ball to the shortstop. In the second place his throw home would have to be perfect to nail the runner. Not all throws are perfect, even when made by the best players. One has to figure on this margin of error, or variation in throwing, when playing baseball

INSIDE GOLF
By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 31 Golf Champions "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

Now we come to the part of the golf swing which, next to the swing itself, is all important—timing. Timing means to the golf swing what aiming means to the rifle bullet.

Timing is the science of bringing the clubhead into contact with the ball, in the forward swing, at the instant when the descending clubhead has attained its utmost velocity, and at the instant, in addition, when the weight of the body, passing over from the right leg to the left, exerts its maximum pressure on the club shaft, so that the entire weight of the body is transmitted, in the blow, to the ball. The best way I know of for the average player to accomplish this, automatically, is to remember to keep the right heel on the ground until the ball has been hit. Keeping this heel down has a tendency to force the weight of the body through because it has nowhere else to go. Another very important factor in the down-swing is always to remember not to rush it. The chances are that the more slowly you make it, within reason, the better your result will be. You must learn that the clubhead must be given sufficient time to do its work.

PULL NEW SCHEME IN TENNIS REALM

Organization Is Perfected To Round Up College Cracks From All Countries.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Without preface or preamble, it was announced today by the United States Lawn Tennis association that an international organization had been formed to conduct foreign and home matches between the college teams of the United States, England, Australia and Canada. The new body will be known as the International Intercollegiate Tennis association and it plans to operate on a scale that ultimately will be comparable with the famous Davis cup series.

A schedule of matches, in which the leading American colleges will sally forth to foreign climes next summer, has been drafted, committees named, felicitations exchanged and the situation left on the fire to come to a slow boil. This happy circumstance will occur early in July when a combined Harvard and Yale team will arrive in England for a series of matches, notably with the best that Oxford and Cambridge can muster.

Stanford Men to Antipodes.

On or about the same date, Stanford university is due to send a team to Australia, where college and club teams will be taken on at random. Correspondence on this matter is now being exchanged, looking toward the arrangement of a series of playing dates. Failing in this, Stanford plans to abandon the tour until the summer of 1925 by which time mature plans will have been made.

Meantime, Princeton also is planning a tour of England and hopes to ease into the Oxford-Cambridge situation some time after the Harvard-Yale matches, beginning July 25 at East Burne, are concluded.

Canadians Invited.

In order that the American situation will not be neglected, overtures are being made to several Canadian colleges to send a team of undergraduates to compete in matches in this country. This, if conducted, will be staged in New England and the middle west against college teams of those sections.

That the business is not so much malarkey, is indicated by the fact that English and American sections of an intercollegiate committee already appointed, include the names of some of the most prominent men in the tennis world. The American list included B. S. Prentice, chairman; George T. Adee, former president of the lawn tennis association; Dick Williams, the internationalist; Holcomb Ward, one of the first Davis cup defenders; Dean Mathey, Karl Behr, Lucien Williams and the captains of the big three, to-wit, Carl Pfaffman, Harvard, Arnold W. Jones, Yale, and John E. Howard, Princeton.

Three international stars, A. H. Lowe, T. M. Mavrogodato and Max Woosman, are named on the English section.

Stokes Hurls Steady Game, But Lincoln Loses Third of Series

(Special to The Star.)

WICHITA, Kan., April 19.— The Links gave the Izzies a fine fight yesterday, but the Wakefield crew finished on the losing end of a tight combat in which the count was 6 to 5 in Wichita's favor.

Art Stokes, on the slab for the Links, pitched in superb form, keeping the Isbell team's hits scattered and issuing only two walks. His support faltered in the third frame, when a brace of fielding bobbles helped the Izzies to a three-run lead, but thence to the finish Stokes hurled effectively, while his teammates came strong in the final innings and all but batted victory out of the fire.

After two clean hits, a fluke blow and errors by Moore and Young had helped the Izzies to three markers in the third, the Links got to Hovlik in the fourth, counting two runs on two free passes, an error by Beck and sacrifices by Milan and Kinsella. The Izzies scored two more in the fifth and again in the sixth, after which Stokes clamped on the brakes.

Synder Mauls Homer.

The Links got after Hovlik in the seventh, when Synder clouted the ball out of the lot for a homer and Kinsella tripled to the scoreboard in deep center field. The runner was left stranded on third when McDonald fanned and Conkey popped an infield fly.

A Lincoln rally in the ninth lacked but little of sending Hovlik to the showers. Hamilton was retired, but Milan hit for a single and Snyder profited from a pass on balls. Kinsella hoisted an infield fly, but McDonald came through with a clean double, scoring both runners. Conkey grounded out and Hovlik pulled out of the hole.

The Wakefield team pulled away Friday night to open a three-game series at St. Joseph today. The score:

Elks In Charge When Links At Home April 29

Lincoln's B. P. O. E. lodge will be in charge of the local Western league baseball inaugural Tuesday, April 29. At Friday night's regular meeting of the Elks, request was made by members of the local boosters' association that No. 80 get behind the opening day project and a motion to that effect was adopted by unanimous vote.

Exalted Ruler Arthur Kurz was authorized to appoint a special committee to take charge of the arrangements, which probably will include a parade of Elks, headed by the Elks band, through the business section to Landis Field.

Another motion adopted by the Elks requests Mayor Zehrung to designate a half-holiday the afternoon of April 29 in order that Lincoln fans may respond generally to the urgent request of the boosters in making the opening day attendance worthy of Lincoln's prestige in commercial and baseball circles.

Exalted Ruler Kurz is expected to take early action in naming the committee to take formal direction of the baseball inaugural.

Odds and Ends In Baseball

Former Nebraska State league pitchers performed creditably in Friday's games in the Western loop. Art Stokes traveled the full nine-inning route for the Links at Wichita, drawing the short end of a 6 to 5 score chiefly by reason of faulty support in one inning, when the Izzies clustered three runs. Stokes kept getting better as the battle advanced and was pitching in brilliant form during the closing innings. Koupal, Hastings righthander last season in the Nebraska circuit, notched his record with a four-hit performance and a victory in tolling for Omaha at St. Joseph.

A. R. Tearney of Chicago, Western league president, is making the rounds of the southern half of the circuit. He witnessed the opening day game at Oklahoma City. The league prexy has accepted Howard Wakefield's invitation to occupy a box seat at the Lincoln-St. Joseph opening day game April 29 at Landis Field.

Six hundred prominent business men and fans of Oklahoma City subscribed $60,000 to a stock company which constructed a new ball park in the capital city of the Sooner state. Jack Holland, owner of the Oklahoma City club, will spend an additional $20,000 in paving on three sides of the park providing hard surface parking space for cars. The new plant was dedicated at Wednesday's opening day game.

George W. Segrist, who will guide the destinies of Sioux City's Tri-State league aggregation, again has a working arrangement with the St. Louis National league team whereby he will acquire surplus players from Frank Rickey's Cardinals. Donald Hurst, St. Louis pitcher, has been released to the Segrist clan on an optional deal and Catcher Bool, former Lincoln State leaguer, is with the Sioux under the same arrangement. In reality, Bool still belongs to the Rickey team.

St. Joseph News-Press: "Frisco" Thompson, hard hitting second baseman of the Omaha Buffaloes, made two beauty stabs of hot grounders yesterday and tossed out two at first. The first one came in the second inning, when he robbed Gilbert of a base hit. The second was in the fourth and he retired the Saints with a neat scoop.

Oklahoma City Oklahoman: Thirteen fly balls were hit to rightfield, eleven of which might have been fielded had it not been for the brilliant sun which burned directly into the eyes of the gardeners tending that territory. Of these thirteen, only one was caught, that by Rosenberry off Spencer in the fifth inning. Felber got one squarely in his hands which he dropped for an error in the ninth. Five went for doubles and four for triples, accounting for a majority of the runs made by both teams.

St. Joseph News-Press: Frankie McCune, a hard-hitting infielder, has been purchased by the St. Joseph Western league club from has the reputation of being a hard hitter, and was with Columbia, S. C., in the South Atlantic league last season. He hit a little under .300 in that league and was second in the circuit in home runs with nineteen. He was also second in triples last season. He will report here some time this week and will get in a Saint uniform immediately.

ILLINOIS TRACK MEN MEET BEARS

Gill's Athletes From Urbana And Californians Clash On Berkeley Oval.

BERKELEY, Cal., April 19.—After a three days' rest, following their long train ride, University of Illinois track athletes were pronounced fit by Coach Harry Gill for their clash here this afternoon against the University of California, eastern intercollegiate champions for the last three years.

The invaders are conceded to have a slight edge. Dean Brownell, world's indoor record holder in the pole vault event, and Milton Angier, champion American collegiate javelin performer, are considered certain winners.

Evans of Illinois and Barber of Califronia are expected to furnish close competition in the 100-yard dash.

Flint, crack Illinois high jumper, and Ayres, invading sprinter, were reported suffering from colds and may not compete today.

Kansas Relays Under Way.

LAWRENCE, Kas., April 19.—The second annual Kansas relays, the middle west's first outdoor track classic of the year, will get under way here this afternoon with more than a thousand athletes representing ninety-five universities, military academies and high schools in all parts of the country entered in 36 scheduled events.

The meet brings together many candidates for places on America's Olympic teams.

John Levi, Haskell institute, conceded to be the greatest Indian athlete since Thorpe, is the outstanding star entered. He will compete in the discus against Platt, Denver university; Paul Jones, Depauw, winner of the Illinois all-around championship, and Gross, holder of the Minnesota record.

Aim at Javelin Record.

In the javelin, Lingelfelter of Drake, Missouri Valley conference champion; Schjoll, Minnesota; Greland, Kansas, and Obert, Notre Dame, will attempt to better Angier's mark of 193 feet 5 inches, made in the Kansas relays last year.

Tom Poor of Kansas, Missouri Valley high jump champion, will compete against Turner of Nebraska, Hagerman of Washington, Campbell of Minnesota, Levi of Haskell, and Jones of Depauw.

Towler and Martineau, Minnesota; Crawford and Brookins, Iowa; Weir, Nebraska; Blanchard, Washington, and Kipp, Haskell, are the gavorites in the hurdles.

Darthmouth, Iowa, Kansas Occidental, Nebraska and Wisconsin are the favorites in the mile relay in the university class. In the four-mile relay Wisconsin and Oregon Aggies are considered the strongest entrants. In the two-mile relay, Northwestern, Ames, and Nebraska are favorites. The medley relay of 1 7-8 miles finds Texas, winner of last year, Notre Dame and Ames all looming strong.

Ex-State Leaguer Sets Down Saints

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 19. — Koupal, former Nebraska State leaguer, held the Saints to four hits yesterday, Omaha winning the odd game of the series, 11 to 5. St. Joseph used three pitchers in a vain effort to stop Omaha's hitters. The score.

Color Bars Georgia's Tiger Fighter From World Title

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

(Copyright 1924 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Two weeks or so ago Tiger Flowers, the negro middleweight from Atlanta, journeyed to New York and began throwing about 1,000,000 gloves at Lee Anderson, the 185-pound dark skinned battler who is one of the heaviest punchers in the ring.

It was Flowers' first appearance in the big town and a packed house sat in for the festivities—including a big group of negroes who caled Georgia their home state and, naturally, were rooting for Flowers.

In and out danced Flowers, whipping left and right to Anderson's body, crossing over with an occasional right to the jaw, jabbing, stabbing, ripping—and varying the ceremony once in a while with a wicked uppercut.

A Whole Menagerie.

In one of the mixups precipitated by Flowers, during which the Tiger hit Anderson about ten times without a return, one of the Georgia group howled delightedly:

"At boy ain't jest no Tigah—he's a WHOLE MANAGERIE."

Which is more or less true.

For quite a long time New York has been hearing about this negro who fights nothing but heavyweights these days because he either has whipped or frightened away all the middies and the lightheavyweights. It has heard him described as "the fastest thing afoot and the most colorful picturesque performer in harness." It believes it now.

Has Dazzling Speed.

No middleweight fighter ever showed more dazzling swiftness of hands and legs than did Flowers. And none has displayed more cleverness on defense or a greater willingness to mix it. Flowers is action—action—action—through every moment the fight endures and neither rests nor permits the other man to rest.

He has a ring trick exclusively his own. The use of it undoubtedly explains why he has been able to fight and whip such men as Jim Flynn, Jamaica Kid, Tut Jackson, Panama Joe Gans and others who have outweighed him anywhere from 10 to 75 pounds. It's a cricling shift.

Clever Fighting Style.

Flowers races in, stabs with his right, shoots over a left cross or an uppercut—and then, instead of backing away, circles toward his foeman's left. The other man, in attempting to return the blows, must wheel around to get in range.

And, as he does, Flowers stops quickly, sets himself and then being in position to hit, does so—and circles once more out of range. And so it goes. He always is a shifting, whirling target and rarely in position to be reached by anything other than a "roundhouse right hand."

Color Line Shuts Him Out.

If Flowers were white, and no one could draw the color line on him, he would be a world's champion among the middleweights—perhaps the boss of the light-heavies—depending, of course, on his luck at getting a swipe at the title-holder. For he is a terrific hitter—when he wants to hit—as his record of 21 kayo victories in 55 starts seems to prove.

But Flowers is a negro. Even if, through the south he is called "the whitest negro in America" because of his clean habits, his exemplary home life and his honorable conduct in the ring, being ebony hued shuts him out of a chance at a title and forces him to do the major portion of his fighting against negroes.

Best of the Middles.

After Flowers had hit Anderson about 2,000 punches, knocked down Anderson and outpointed him by a mile in every one of the twelve rounds, one of the biggest promoters said:

There is a million dollar fighter who must fight for comparatively small money all his life because he was born a negro. He's the greatest middleweight in the game—bar none. He would be fighting for $50,000 to $200,000 gates if he were white; he must battle for $10,000 and $15,000 houses against other negroes or against dubs among the white fighters."

Flowers is the best drawing card the south has produced in many yars. Whenever he battles, he packs the building because his hurricane style of warfare pleases the audience and stirs it to fever frenzy. He is an idol in Juarez, Mexico, where he fought more than a dozen times.

Hard to Get Matches.

"My main trouble with Flowers," declared Walker Miller, who manages him, "is to get matches for him. Nobody wants to fight him. The Jamaica Kid and Panama Joe Gans having tried him out a few times, want no more of him. You couldn't drag either into a ring with the Tiger, although each outweighs him about 10 pounds.

"As a result, I must, to keep him busy, send this 158-pound boy against men like Anderson, 185 pounds; Tut Jackson, 190; Jim Flynn, 215; Kid Norfolk, 180, and others of the same kind.

Everybody Sidesteps.

"I wanted to get a match for the Tiger with Paul Berlenbach, but Berlenbach didn't want him. I've tried to match him with Ad Stone, Ted Jamieson, Young Slatterly, Jack Delaney and a gang of the other light-heavies. But they sidestep. I have made offers to both Harry Greb and Mike McTigue, which are rather unique. Neither has been accepted. Both still stand. They are:

"'If you will meet Flowers in a no-decision bout, you can have his share of the purse. If you will meet him in a decision bout you can have his share of the purse and a $5,000 bonus from me.'

"Ive made those offers because I know that Flowers can knock out either man—and can come mighty close to naming the round. If Greb or McTigue don't think so all they need to do to convince themselves is to give Flowers a chance."

Fan Suggests Opening Day Be Made a Holiday

A booster for Western league ball in Lincoln comes to bat with a suggestion that a general holiday be declared in the capital city the afternoon of Tuesday, April 29—date of the opening day game in this city. The following letter to The Star urges that Lincoln "close up shop" April 29:

"Sports Editor Star: Now that Lincoln has again taken her place in the Western league, what will the people of Lincoln do to show their appreciation of the efforts put forth by those public spirited citizens who, by purchasing Landis Field, made this possible?

"I know of no better way to show our appreciation than by attending the games. While it is impossible for each of us to attend every game, yet I know of one and I believe there are many others who would like to attend the opening game, but may be denied this privilege unless a holiday is declared and business suspended for the afternoon. This could be done, and at the end of the year we would not miss the time so spent.

"I believe we should 'close up shop' so that everybody may go to the opening game, thus to show the owners of the park, the players on the team, the club owners and the whole Western league circle that we are for the league and the game.

"G. M. ASHLEY."

PLANNING LOCAL BASEBALL LOOP

Industrial Teams to Compete In Flag Race Starting Early In May.

An industrial baseball league will be promoted by the Lincoln Y. M. C. A. this summer, according to an announcement made Saturday morning by John W. Fuhrer, physical director of the Lincoln association.

Representatives of the employes of several Lincoln concerns met Friday evening and decided to organize an eight-club circuit to play twilight games one night each week during the summer months. The plan is to open the league May 8 and to schedule a game for each team each Thursday.

Walter S. Baker of the Hussong Ford Co. was selected temporary chairman of the league. Members of the rules committee are G. B. Pegler of the Lincoln Gas Co., H. R. Tankusley of the Star Van Co. and B. F. O'Neill of the Lee Broom & Duster Co.

Teams expected to join the league include Evans Laundry, Star Van Co., Lincoln Gas Co., Lee Broom & Duster Co., Lincoln Telephone Co.

Chance Ordered Return to Coast

CHICAGO, April 19. — Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago White Sox, today was ordered by his physicians to return to California to recuperate from illness which prevented him from assuming charge of the club this season.

Chance plans to leave the hospital at once to arrange for his return to California.

Johnny Evers, who has been first assistant to Chance, probably will be appointed manager of the club pending the return of the "peerless leader." Evers has been in charge of the team since the time it started spring training.

Layton-Sherrick Left at Home By Nebraska Squad

A party of University of Nebraska tracksters headed for Lawrence, Kan., late Friday night to participate in the annual Kansas university relay carnival.

Coach Henry F. Schulte, Nebraska track mentor, took seventeen of his athletes on the trip, the squad having been crippled by ineligibility and illness.

"Red" Layton, crack varsity quarter-miler, and Scherrick, state college record-holder, were forced to stay behind because of failure to clear scholastic barriers, while Whipperman, another member of the Cornhusker mile-relay team with which Schulte had hoped to lower the Lawrence record, remained at home because of an infected jaw caused by an abscessed tooth.

The loss of the trio of speedsters also crippled the sprint team and Schulte was unable to announce Friday night the personnel of the short distance relays. He indicated, however, that Beerkle and Crites would probably be called upon to fill the gap. Locke and Hein are fixtures on the sprint teams.

Men making the Kansas trip were: Captain "Mud" Gardner, Fremont; Ed Weir, Superior; Roland Locke, North Platte; William Hein, Wilbur; Dean Higgins, Stella; Ted Slemmons, Omaha; Orris Hatch, Coin, Ia.; Henry Bassett, Falls City; Ced Hartman, Lincoln; Hobart Davis, Lincoln; Jack Ross, Gibbon; James Lewis, Havelock; Everett Crites, Central City; John Rhodes, Ansley; Douglas Myers, Beatrice; Wilmer Beerkle, Omaha; Hobb Turner, Omaha.

NEW YORK—Friends of the late Bill Donovan will gather at New Haven tomorrow to attend the Donovan memorial exercises. An exhibition game between New Haven and the Philadelphia Athletics will be played to raise a memorial fund. Judge Landis plans to attend.

Touching The Bases.

After giving a very natty exhibition for eight innings, Ray Kremer, Coast league recruit of the Pirates, staked the Red to a two-run rally and lost, 3 to 2.

The Indians welcomed Cole with a shower of base hits in the third for enough runs to beat the Tigers, 5 to 3, in the finale of the series. Passes and errors accounted for all the Tigers' runs off Edwards.

Just to prove that time cannot wither nor custom stale, Eddie Collins drove out three hits, one a homer, scored two runs, and handled nine chances without a miscue and altogether made himself conspicuous in the 5 to 1 victory of the White Sox over the Browns.

Home runs by Grimes and Miller in the second started the Cubs on a rampage that ended in a 6 to 3 decision over the Cardinals. Hornsby also wafted one beyond the park limits, but in vain.

Scenes shift in baseball's "big show" today. Home teams remain undisturbed as road outfits exchange locations. In the American league, the Yankees, somewhat bedraggled, but still champions of the world, leave Boston for Washington. Connie Mack's young athletes taste the surprising Red Sox in morning and afternoon Patriots' day games. Cleveland enters Chicago and St. Louis invades Detroit.

Chicago and Cincinnati will fight it out at Redland field in the National league as Pittsburgh meets St. Lous. Brooklyn leaves New York for Philadelphia and Dave Bancroft takes his league leading Boston team to the Polo grounds for a series with his former teammates.

All big leagues games in the east were cancelled yesterday by rain and cold weather.

In the west, both Chicago teams made it three out of four in the inter-city series with St. Louis. The Sox now lead the American league, but Boston, with one victory and no defeats, tops the Cubs in the National.

How It's Dore In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Giants

The bases are filled and one man is out. Batter hits ball through pitcher's legs to second baseman. There is a fast runner on third base.

Where should second baseman make the play?

In a case of this kind the second baseman should try for a double play in order to retire the side at bat. His best plan is to toss the ball to the shortstop, who covers second on the play, and have him complete the double to first.

As the man on third is a fast runner the chances are the second baseman wouldn't be able to nail him at the plate. In the first place he'd have to straighten to make this throw, and that consumes time—time he saves in tossing the ball to the shortstop. In the second place his throw home would have to be perfect to nail the runner. Not all throws are perfect, even when made by the best players. One has to figure on this margin of error, or variation in throwing, when playing baseball.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 91 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

Now we come to the part of the golf swing which, next to the swing itself, is all important—timing. Timing means to the golf swing what aiming means to the rifle bullet.

Timing is the science of bringing the clubhead into contact with the ball, in the forward swing, at the instant when the descending clubhead has attained its utmost velocity, and at the instant, in addition, when the weight of the body, passing over from the right leg to the left, exerts its maximum pressure on the club shaft, so that the entire weight of the body is transmitted, in the blow, to the ball. The best way I know of for the average player to accomplish this, automatically, is to remember to keep the right heel on the ground until the ball has been hit. Keeping this heel down has a tendency to force the weight of the body through because it has nowhere else to go. Another very important factor in the down-swing is always to remember not to rush it. The chances are that the more slowly you make it, within reason, the better your result will be. You must learn that the clubhead must be given sufficient time to do its work.

PULL NEW SCHEME IN TENNIS REALM

Organization Is Perfected To Round Up College Cracks From All Countries.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Without preface or preamble, it was announced today by the United States Lawn Tennis association that an international organization had been formed to conduct foreign and home matches between the college teams of the United States, England, Australia and Canada. The new body will be known as the International Intercollegiate Tennis association and it plans to operate on a scale that ultimately will be comparable with the famous Davis cup series.

A schedule of matches, in which the leading American colleges will sally forth to foreign climes next summer, has been drafted, committees named, felicitations exchanged and the situation left on the fire to come to a slow boil. This happy circumstance will occur early in July when a combined Harvard and Yale team will arrive in England for a series of matches, notably with the best that Oxford and Cambridge can muster.

Stanford Men to Antipodes.

On or about the same date, Stanford university is due to send a team to Australia, where college and club teams will be taken on at random. Correspondence on this matter is now being exchanged, looking toward the arrangement of a series of playing dates. Failing in this, Stanford plans to abandon the tour until the summer of 1925 by which time mature plans will have been made.

Meantime, Princeton also is planning a tour of England and hopes to ease into the Oxford-Cambridge situation some time after the Harvard-Yale matches, beginning July 25 at East Burne, are concluded.

Canadians Invited.

In order that the American situation will not be neglected, overtures are being made to several Canadian colleges to send a team of undergraduates to compete in matches in this country. This, if conducted, will be staged in New England and the middle west against college teams of those sections.

That the business is not so much malarkey, is indicated by the fact that English and American sections of an intercollegiate committee already appointed, include the names of some of the most prominent men in the tennis world. The American list included B. S. Prentice, chairman; George T. Adee, former president of the lawn tennis association; Dick Williams, the internationalist; Holcomb Ward, one of the first Davis cup defenders; Dean Mathey, Karl Behr, Lucien Williams and the captains of the big three, to-wit, Carl Pfaffman, Harvard; Arnold W. Jones, Yale, and John E. Howard, Princeton.

Three international stars, A. H. Lowe, T. M. Mavrogodato and Max Woosman, are named on the English section.
